The Latest from Secretary Stanton—Nothing from Grant, Butler or Sherman Yesterday—Gen. Crook's Victory.

(OFFICIAL.)

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18—10:45 P. M.

To Maj.-Gen. Dix:

We have no dispatches to-day from Gen. GRANT nor from Gens. BUTLER or SHERMAN.

The reports from the Kanawha confirm the destruction of the bridge over New River, and the destruction of several miles of the railroad track by Gen. Crook's command, and states that he has fought three battles with Gens. SAM JONES and A. G. JENKINS, and defeated, the rebel loss being over 600 killed and 600 prisoners. Gen. JENKINS fell into our hands mortally wounded.

All of our wounded that can be removed from Fredericksburgh have reached Washington.

The rebel prisoners have been removed from Belle Plain.

Visitors from the Army of the Potomac represent the troops to be in excellent condition, and reinforcements were rapidly arriving.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

Improvement of the Roads—Grant Moves—Without Delay—A Draft to Fill the Place of the Hundred Day Men.

[OFFICIAL.]

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18—11½ A. M.

Maj.-Gen. Dix:

We have no reports of operations since my last dispatch.

The latest information from Gen. GRANT was that the roads had greatly improved. Large reinforcements had reached him, and he designed to move against the enemy without delay.

It is the design of the Government to keep up the greatest forces until the rebellion is overthrown, and in order to provide against any inopportune reduction, when the service of the hundred days men go out, a draft to fill up their place, and all other reductions will be ordered to take place on the first of July, by which time the new enrollments will be completed.

No order is yet issued.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

Success of Gen. KAUTZ's Last Expedition—The Danville Railroad Destroyed—Gen. Butler's Operations—Defeat of Gen. Sigel—Gen. Sherman Progressing Satisfactorily.

The following dispatch appeared in our postscript edition, yesterday morning.

[OFFICIAL.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, May 17, 1864—9 P. M.

Maj. Gen. Dix:

Dispatches from Gen. BUTLER, just received, report the success of his expedition under Gen. KAUTZ to cut the Danville Railroad and destroy the iron bridge across the Appomattox.

On Monday morning, the enemy in force, under cover of a thick fog, made an attack upon KAUTZ's line, and forced it back in some confusion and with considerable loss. But, as soon as the fog lifted, Gen. BUTLER reestablished his lines, and the enemy was driven back to his original lines.

At the same time the enemy made an attack from Petersburgh on Gen. BUTLER's forces guarding the rear, but were handsomely repulsed.

The troops having been on incessant duty for five days, three of which were in a rain-storm, Gen. BUTLER retired leisurely within his own lines.

Prisoners state that BRAGG and DAVIS were present on the field.

Dispatches from Gen. SIGEL, received this evening, report that on Sunday he fought the forces of EWELL and IMBODEN, under BRECKINRIDGE, at New-Market; that the enemy's forces were superior in number, and that he gradually withdrew from the battle-field and recrossed the Shenandoah, having lost five pieces of artillery, about six hundred killed and wounded and fifty prisoners, but bringing all his train and all the wounded that could be transported from the battle-field. He states that in consequence of the long line and the trains that had to be guarded, he could not bring more than six regiments into the fight, beside the artillery and cavalry, and that the enemy had about 7,000 infantry, besides other arms; that his retrograde movement to Strasburgh was effected in perfect order, without any loss of material or men. He gives no list of casualties, but Lieut.-Col. LINCOLN, of the Thirty-fourth Massachusetts, is reported to be wounded and captured.

No report of any operations by the Army of the Potomac have been received to-day.

A dispatch from Gen. SHERMAN reports his advance upon Jonnston as progressing to his satisfaction. His supplies are abundant, and our animals are improving on the grass and grain fields, which now afford good pasture. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

All Quiet—Recapture of a Hospital—Sufferings of the Wounded.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 17.

A dispatch from the Army of the Potomac, dated to-day, at noon, says it was very quiet yesterday along the lines, except some skirmishing in the centre by BURNSIDE's men, and the throwing of a few shell from BAXTER's division to feel the enemy, which however elicited no response. The rebel sharpshooters, however, held their ground.

During this time a division of the Second Corps was sent to retake possession of two of our hospitals, which were abandoned on Saturday last, with about five hundred wounded in them. The rebel cavalry had been there and helped themselves to such articles as they wanted, and had calculated on taking all the occupants away as prisoners. But we were just in time to prevent this, and our wagons brought them all away, with their tents, supplies, &c.

A Surgeon who was left in charge of the hospitals on the Wilderness battle-field, reports the capture of 800 of our wounded at that place, and their transportation to the rebel lines, from which he succeeded in making his escape. He says our wounded were suffering for the want of everything, even bread, and no Surgeons were there to dress their wounds.

Reinforcements are arriving rapidly. The roads are improving, and movements of importance may soon be expected.

GEN. BUTLER'S ARMY.

The Situation on Monday—The Enemy's Works—Appearance of a Rebel Ironclad—The Roads.

BERMUDA LANDING, Va., Monday Morning, May 16, 1864.

Our forces still hold the long line of earthworks, which were captured last Thursday from the enemy. There was no general engagement yesterday, but all along our lines the skirmishers were firing briskly. The second line of rebel works is about three-quarters of a mile in advance of our position, and the belief is that there the enemy will make a firm stand. Whether Gen. BUTLER will attack these fortifications, or content himself with holding, for the present, the large tract of country from which we have driven the rebels, I am unable to say. We now have the district between City Point and Bermuda Landing to within three miles of Petersburgh on the south, and to within nine miles of Richmond on the north side. Drury's Bluff, whereon the guns of Fort Darling frown, is scarcely two miles and a half beyond our pickets.

This morning there has been heavy firing on the James River some distance above this point. It probably comes from our gunboats, who have been carefully feeling their way toward Fort Darling. Yesterday the enemy's iron-clad Richmond came down below Fort Darling to reconnoitre. Our advanced gunboats threw a few shot at her, and she returned up the river.

The recent heavy rains have left the roads in a shockingly disgusting state. All the distance from here to the front the mud is at least six inches deep, and the heavy travel has worn deep holes and ruts in many places. Drawing supplies of all kinds to the troops is a difficult work, which tells distressingly upon horse flesh.

Dr. CRAVEN, Medical Director of the Tenth Corps, has given me the following names of officers wounded yesterday and the day before: Col. T. O. Osborn, Thirty-ninth Illinois, right arm; Maj. Ainsworth, Tenth New-Hampshire, abdomen, seriously; Second Lieut. A. H. Hoyt, One Hundredth New-York, abdomen, seriously; First Lieut. George Metcalf, First Connecticut Light Artillery, mortally; Capt. John N. Partridge, Twenty-fourth Massachusetts, head; Second Lieut. Edward Pratt, One Hundredth New-York, *foot; Capt. J. D. Wallace, Fourth New-*Hampshire, both thighs; Lieut. H. J. Davis, Fourteenth New-Hampshire, arm; C. C. Brewster, Tenth Connecticut, seriously, through the leg; Orderly Sergt. Appleton, One Hundred and Seventeenth New-York, head.

Lieut. Wood, Company G, Seventh Connecticut, was killed. H. J. W.

Arrival of Rebel Prisoners—Arrival of Recaptured Union Soldiers—Captured Rebel Officers En Route for Fort Delaware—List of Wounded.

FORTRESS MONROE, Monday, May 16.

One hundred and eighty-four rebel prisoners arrived here last night from Bermuda Hundreds, having been taken by Gen. SHERIDAN during his late raid. There were eighteen officers; among them, Capt. HOPE, A. C. on Gen. RUGGLES' Staff. They were sent to military prison.

The steamer John Tucker arrived yesterday afternoon with 200 soldiers that were recaptured from the rebels by Gen. SHERIDAN. To-day 343 more arrived under charge of Col. TALLY, of the First Pennsylvania Reserves. They have all been sent to Alexandria for the purpose of being forwarded to their respective regiments. The brave fellows were highly elated with the idea, and cheered heartily when they ascertained that no necessity existed for an exchange.

Three hundred and forty rebel prisoners from Belle Plain, on route for Fort Delaware, arrived at a late hour last evening on the steamer Suwa. They were transferred to the Saloon, and convoyed by the gunboat Commodore Read. The names of the officers have already been published.

GENERAL WADSWORTH.

ARRIVAL OF THE REMAINS IN WASHINGTON.

Preparations to Bring Them to This State.

Meeting of Congressional Representatives.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18—12 M.

Major CURTING, of Gen. AUGER's Staff, arrived here this morning with the body of Gen. WADSWORTH. He was shot by a rebel sharpshooter who was concealed in a tree, the ball striking him on the top of the head and coming out back of the neck. Gen. STRAGUE, Adjutant-General of New-York, having received a dispatch from Gov. SEYMOUR to receive the remains on the part of the State, and to take such steps as he may think proper, has just called a meeting of the New-York delegation. His remains will leave to-night, accompanied by a committee of five members of Congress.

Arrival of the Remains at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

The steamer Mary Raply arrived this morning with the body of Gen. WADSWORTH, accompanied by several members of his staff. Dr. Ross, who was sent to the army by Drs. BROWN and ALEXANDER, a week ago, for the purpose of recovering the body of Gen. WADSWORTH, returned this morning, having been successful in his mission. The body was found buried at a place on the Wilderness battle-field, between the Fredericksburgh plank-road and the turnpike. It had been inclosed in a good coffin, painted black, and was interred, it is said, by a man named PATRICK GRIFFIN, who lives in the vicinity of the battle-field, and had been befriended by Gen. WADSWORTH in Washington, and had obtained Gen. LEE's permission to care for the body. It is but just to say that Gen. LEE gave free consent to have the body exhumed and brought home, but some of his officers did all in their power to thwart the party seeking the body, by objecting to slight informalities in the arrangement for the flag of truce. The body is so far decomposed that it cannot be embalmed. It will, however, be placed in a metallic coffin and taken to New-York. It is intended to remove the remains to-morrow morning.

Important Meeting of New-York Representatives—Resolutions of Respect and Sympathy.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

The Senators and Representatives from the State of New-York met at the Capitol to-day to testify their respect for the memory and services of the late Brig.-Gen. WADSWORTH.

Representative FENTON was called to the chair, and Representative ODELL acted as Secretary.

Representative PRYN offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That in the death of Gen. WADSWORTH not only the State of New-York, but the country at large, has lost one of its most devoted and patriotic sons—one who gave his time, his means and his energies to the suppression of the existing rebellion, with an earnestness and zeal not surpassed in the history of this great struggle; that the close connection of the family of Gen. WADSWORTH with the early history and development of the western part of our State, their warm support of all measures for advancing the educational and agricultural interests of the Commonwealth, in which he also largely shared, combined with his energy of character and active patriotism, gave to the deceased a large and well-merited influence with his associates, and commanded the respect of the community at large.

Resolved, That we offer to the family of deceased our most respectful sympathy in the great loss which has not only deprived them of their head, but our State of a distinguished citizen and the country of an officer of conceded patriotism and valor.

Representatives Fenton, Odell, Norris, Ganson, Freeman, Clark, and Winfield, were appointed a Committee to accompany the remains to New-York.

Arrangements have been made to leave with the body to-morrow morning, to arrive at New-York by 6½ o'clock P. M.

Arrival of Gen. Wadsworth's Remains at Washington.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 18—1:45 P. M.

A special to the Bulletin says:

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

Gen. WADSWORTH's body has arrived, and will be taken North to-morrow. The rebels had interred it in a black coffin. It is too much decomposed to embalm.

The gunboats Pocahontas and Columbia arrived at New-Orleans 9th inst.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

THE TAX BILL IN THE SENATE.

The Senate Finance Committee is working from four to six hours daily on the Tax Bill. It will probably not be ready to report before Monday. Commissioner LEWIS was before them to-day for several hours. It is understood that they have decided to increase the tax on whisky. Also, that they have decided to adhere to their former action, and not tax stock on hand.

WAR LOSSES.

The Senate Judiciary Committee had under consideration the question of reimbursing Border States for property destroyed and losses sustained in the prosecution of the war. The committee are averse to taking any action on the question now.

DISTRICT COURTS OF NEW-YORK.

Senator HARRIS, from the Military Committee, authorized to report the House bill changing the time for holding courts in the Northern District of New-York, struck out the House amendment fixing salaries of Judges of said district at three thousand dollars per annum, leaving them as now provided by law.

THE TARIFF BILL.

The Ways and Means Committee made considerable progress to-day with the Tariff Bill. They will have it ready to report by the time the Senate complete the Tax Bill.

GEN. FOSTER AND THE DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

Major-Gen. FOSTER is assigned to command the Department of the South, vice Gen. GILMORE, transferred to Gen. BUTLER's Department. Gen. FOSTER has already started for his new command. His headquarters will for the present will be at Hilton Head.

THE SALARIES OF POSTMASTERS.

There will be general lamentation among postmasters should the bill introduced in the House to-day from the Post-office Committee become a law. It cuts away all their fat commissions, perquisites from box rents and the like, and places them on comparatively meagre salaries.

REFORM IN PUBLIC PRINTING.

Senator ANTHONY got through the Senate to-day a much needed reform in public printing. It provides for condensing the reports of the several departments each year into a single volume, and preparing for them an elaborate index. Another desirable change enables booksellers and others to purchase public documents of the Government.

THE TREASURY INVESTIGATION.

Testimony has been given before the Treasury Investigating Committee by a professed agent of certain bank-note companies admitting that he made an effort, under their instructions, to bribe CLARKE, Superintendent of the Printing Bureau, to abandon the effort to execute printing notes and bonds in the department.

PROMOTIONS.

The promotions in the regular army confirmed by the Senate to-day include a large number of Orderly Sergeants promoted to Lieutenancies, to which has hitherto been some opposition from West Point influences.

VISITORS TO THE ARMY.

Several members of Congress have been down to the army within a day or two. Senators SHERMAN and SPRAGUE returned this evening.

THE PUNISHMENT OF GUERRILLAS.

It should go upon the record that the objection in the House to-day to the effort by Mr. GARFIELD from the Military Committee, to enable Commanders in the field to mete out prompt punishment to the guerrillas who are murdering our wounded soldiers, came from Messrs. ROSS and WOOD, on the Democratic side.

RECRUITING IN THE DISTRICT.

The State of Massachusetts has enlisted over eighteen hundred men, about half negroes, in this District, since the 1st of April, by means of her large State and town counties.

THE WEATHER.

Heavy rains here again to-day. If they extended to Spottsylvania, it is scarcely probable that active operations can have been resumed.

ARMY NEWS.

No later news from the army in town than that forwarded from Mr. SWINTON under date of 5 o'clock this morning.

THE VOLUNTEER ENGINEERS.

The organization of volunteer engineer corps, not to exceed ten regiments in all, has been agreed upon as an amendment to the Senate bill by the House Military Committee. The appointment of topographical engineers to division and corps commands will be made imperative, and term of enlistments will be three years.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

ADDRESS TO THE PRESIDENT FROM THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CONFERENCE.

A deputation of delegates from the Methodist Episcopal General Conference, in session at Philadelphia, visited the President to-day and presented to him an address, in which the conference, representing nearly a million of members, expressed to him the assurance of the loyalty of the Church, her earnest devotion to the interests of the country, and his sympathies with him in the great responsibilities of his high position in this trying hour. They honor him for the proclamation of liberty, and rejoice in all the acts of the Government designed to secure freedom to the enslaved. In conclusion they say: "Actuated by the sentiments of the loftiest and purest patriotism, our prayer shall be continually for the preservation of our country undivided, for the triumph of our cause, and for a permanent peace gained by the sacrifice of no moral principles, but founded on the word of God, and securing righteousness, liberty and equal rights to all."

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

To this address the President replied as follows:

GENTLEMEN: In response to your address, allow me to attest the accuracy of its historical statements, endorse the sentiments it expresses, and thank you, in the nation's name, for the sure promise it gives. Nobly sustained as the Government has been by all the churches, I would utter nothing which might in the least appear invidious against any. Yet, without this, it may fairly be said that the Methodist Episcopal Church, not less devoted than the best, is, by its greater numbers, the most important of all. It is no fault in others that the Methodist Church sends more soldiers to the field, more nurses to the hospitals, and more prayers to Heaven than any. God bless the Methodist Church! Bless all the churches, and blessed be God, who, in this our great trial, giveth us the churches.

A committee of one from each county was appointed on permanent organization, and one from each county on resolutions; one from each county on credentials, and one also to arrange seats, &c.

All resolutions are to be referred to the committee. The Convention adjourned at 2½ o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention reassembled at 2:30 P. M.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported JACOB R. WORTENDYKE, of Hudson, for President, and a Vice-President from each county, and a Secretary from each district.

The Convention then proceeded to the election of Senatorial and District Delegates to the Chicago Convention, and the following gentlemen were elected:

Senatorial Delegates—Jno. P. Stockton, Abraham Browning, Theodore Runyon, Daniel Holman.

The Committee on Resolutions reported a series of resolutions, the first of which declares a firm attachment to the principles of the Federal Constitution as the only bond of our Union, and pledges the Convention to its maintenance, and to resistance to encroachment aiming at its overthrow. The second resolution reiterates their faith in the doctrine that constitutional law is the only true basis of Executive action in war as well as in peace. The third resolution declares that as they have no State candidates to present, and no issue involved in the coming election, other than those which affect the other States, they leave the candidate and platform of the Presidency to the Chicago Convention, on which they will rely to choose a President and bring back peace and Union to this distracted land. The last resolution declares that the first necessary step to restore the welfare and prosperity of the American Republic is through the ballot-box, to overthrow the present corrupt Federal Administration, and a thorough organization of the Democratic party.

The resolutions were adopted without debate.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 18.

A dispatch from Washington to the Bulletin says:

"A telegraphic messenger, employed in Petersburgh, Va., who has just escaped, informs me that BEAUREGARD has been reinforced by BAXTER's division, and the rebels were crowding their forces into Richmond by way of Greensboro and Danville. He states that there are five iron-clads at Richmond, and that there are heavy batteries on the James River from Warwick's to Drury's Bluff."

Suspension of a Baltimore Paper.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, May 18.

The Evening Transcript, a disloyal paper, was suspended to-day by order of Gen. WALLACE, for publishing a dispatch saying that the loss of the Army of the Potomac was 70,000 men, and crediting the same to the Associated Press. It was proved that the paper did not take the Associated Press dispatches, and that the dispatch in question did not emanate from any agent of the Associated Press.

OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

The Conference and the Channel Fleet—The Situation in Denmark—England's Broken Truth—Garibaldi—The Blockade-Runners—American Discussions in London—The Georgia at Liverpool—Case of the Rappahannock—Questions for the Premier—The Emperor of Mexico at Gibraltar—Apple Blossoms—The Two Families—Sothern as Garrick—Meyerbeer—Gales in Mexico—Emigration.

LONDON, Saturday, May 7, 1864.

The Conference has met three times, I believe—to adjourn. It has done nothing but to propose an armistice, which has not been accepted. The Channel fleet is in the Downs.

"All in the Downs the fleet is moored," and there it will probably remain. Lord CLARENCE PAGET, who is something of a rôle de chanson, if one may say such a thing of a Lord, intimated that if any Austrian fleet was going into the Baltic, the British fleet would keep it company. The House of Commons cheered—that is, they said "hear, hear," loud and often. But the Austrian fleet, apparently, has no notion of entering the Baltic, its object being to protect German commerce in what is sometimes called the German Ocean.

Nobody seems to know what will come of the conference. Denmark has been driven from the continent to her island strongholds. Jutland is completely in the possession of Prussia. Frederick's was abandoned without a blow, for it could not have been held, and blood enough had been shed for honor at Duppel. Jutland, it is said, will be held as a material guarantee for the evacuation of Alsen, and, perhaps, for "beating the retreat." Of course, the German Powers will have it all their own way, as they have had. England will not bluster more than she had blustered; and it would be of no avail if she did, for it is thoroughly believed all over Europe that she will do no more than she has done. There is a suspension of hostilities, though not a formal armistice, and England is now pressing Denmark to abandon the blockade, so as to make things agreeable. Certainly, a great nation has seldom stood in such a position. England promised, through her Prime Minister, that Denmark should not stand alone. That promise has been disregarded. The Times says that England cannot be blamed, for France, Prussia and Sweden have done no more than England. Yes, but they have not promised so much, and that is rather an important difference.

While the Channel fleet is lying in the Downs, steam up, and all its officers recalled by telegraph from their furloughs, and Lord CLARENCE, also with steam up, is making belligerent speeches in the House of Commons, we are quietly informed by an official German newspaper that the sailing of a British fleet for the Baltic will be the signal for the Prussian and Austrian Ministers to leave London. Under these circumstances, the fleet will stay "all in the Downs," or steer away for the Bay of Biscay, &c.

We do not hear the last of our GARIBALDI. He has been heard from, safely arrived at Gibraltar. I believe there is not a man in England, excepting the Earl of Shaftsbury—"and he must be a fool"—who is not perfectly satisfied that all the nonsense about his health was pure humbug. The astonishing thing was that a man like Mr. GLADSTONE should have lent himself to such a transparent sham. The workingmen's committee is a small-potato affair, as are all such committees in England, and as more presumptuous ones are very apt to be, but they have a little pluck, and mean to hold their meeting to-night, and they say they have documentary evidence of the conspiracy to deprive them of their hero. But they were prived of him while he was here. He may be looking his cabbages at Caprera, or dining Duchesses at Strafford House and Grosvenor Square a row, Mr. COWPER has given his grounds permission to hold the meeting.

The Index, Confederate organ in London, publishes this week a list of blockade runners, and their fortunes, from November, 1861, to March 10, 1864. It appears from this statement that 91 steamers have been engaged in this business. Of these 11 were captured or lost on the first run; 37 have been captured; 25 have been lost; 23 are still running, having paid for themselves many times over. Of 435 attempts to run the blockade from the single port of Nassau, 303 have been successful, and 63 unsuccessful. Besides the steamers, about 100 schooners have arrived at Nassau from various Confederate ports. Though these statistics, which have the air of guesswork, might, perhaps, interest Mr. Secretary WEMAN, it has not already received the facts from other sources. As we get all our news about the conference from French and German papers, you may Probably enough get some American news from this side of the Atlantic.

If you do, there is one item that may surprise you, and that is the way in which prominent Americans—Federal or loyal Americans I mean—are beginning to talk about the war. Not having the fear of Mr. Speaker COLFAX, or the majority in the House of Representatives, before their eyes, they are gravely discussing what ought to be done, if the campaign in Virginia should prove a failure. Of course, they hope, and, perhaps, I ought to say believe, that Gen. GRANT will take Richmond, and drive Gen. LEE out of Virginia; but, in case he should not accomplish this, they talk—they very pen almost refuses to write the words—they talk of peace! They even discuss conditions and boundaries. They speculate on the financial needs of the South, and the possibility of establishing a Zoliverein. I need not shock your loyal readers by any further [illegible] but if such a view of American affairs is taken by prominent and supposed loyal Americans in London and Paris, it is easy to see what is likely to be upon two Governments strongly predisposed to look for such a settlement, and ready at the first opportunity to press it upon the Federal Government.

You will have learned that the Confederate cruiser Georgia has taken refuge in the docks of Liverpool, and the officers there by the Southern Club. Mr. Fenwick brought the matter up in the House of Commons last night. The object is that she is to be sold, and it is intended that her armament and crew are to be transferred to the Alexander. It is not likely that the sale will actually be effected, but rather the Georgia will remain under the protection of the Union Jack, and the Lairds will either sell or repair her. You may take it for granted, after what has happened, that she did not depart from the Mersey, until the Government had been consulted in the matter, so that nothing but a protest will come of Mr. Fenwick's motion. The Government official who aided in fitting out the Rappahannock has been indicted in Court for trial at her return to the Court of Queen's Bench—an unusual proceeding of which I have a very hazy notion. The case of the rams [illegible] for trial prior to the 20th. In fact, if this proceedings Conference were disposed of, we should be almost entirely delivered with transatlantic affairs.

Mr. Thomas Baring has also given notice of a question to Lord Russell. He will ask Lord Palmerston what the Government proposes to do about a steamer fitted out in a British port, manned with a British crew, which, after making war upon a country with which England is at peace, has the impudence to [illegible] the English dock? Lord Palmerston has been so filled about the Conference, that his greatest attack of gout is uncommonly severe—or it may have been dining with so many hard-eating and deep-drinking diplomatists, but it is expected that he will be able, in a few days, so far as the gout is concerned, to answer Mr. Baring's question.

The Emperor Maximilian had a magnificent reception at Gibraltar the other day. The fortress and ships fired a grand salute, in which they were joined by the Spanish fort on the opposite side of the Straits. It not being etiquette for the Emperor to fire salutes, he requested the French ship Themis, which then was lying, to do the honors; so she ran up the English flag and fired 21 guns, and then put the Spanish the same compliment. Just then the Ex Calatamone came close, and with the few guns she had left, renewed the ceremonies of the occasion. It was doubtless very gratifying to the new Emperor; but I wonder if there was any United States ship at the Straits, or, if there had been one, what it would have done. It might depend, perhaps, upon whether the commander had heard of the resolutions of the House of Representatives. And suppose the Emperor of Mexico, for any reason, should, some pleasant morning, steam into the harbor of New-York. The Commander of the station, if not instructed, would be obliged to telegraph to Washington—and then what? This question will have to be settled, I should think, during the present session. The Senate has declined to go with the House, but is it ready to go in quite a contrary direction? There is a gentleman at Paris who is, perhaps, more anxious than I am to know how this question will be answered. But he is patient, he waits, and can wait. I do not refer to Mr. Slidell or Mr. Mason, but a man whose words and movements they are watching with considerable curiosity.

While we wait for the slow Conference and the news from the armies in Virginia, the season glides on. It is the 7th of May, and yesterday I drove through fifteen miles of apple blossoms. The lilacs are out in season, and so are the horse-chestnuts. That grand avenue of horse-chestnuts in Bushy Park, planted, if I mistake not, by Cardinal Wolsey, is now in all its glory. This, if I remember, is a little earlier than in New-York, ten degrees nearer the equator. The weather could not be more delightful. The two opera houses are in full blast; this afternoon there is the first of a series of opera concerts at the Crystal Palace, with Carlotta Patti and Sims Reeves, and to-night Adelina Patti sings at the Royal Opera Covent Garden, in "The Barbiere." At Her Majesty's they are singing "Falstaff," in honor, I presume, of the Tercentenary, which, otherwise, has been made a dreadful mess of. Do you remember the excursion of the Great Eastern to Atlantic City? It is among the bygones, but that is the way such matters are managed in this country. It was quite a normal proceeding, taken from the English point of view, and had it happened here would not have surprised anybody.

Mr. Sothern has appeared in a new part—David Garrick—in a new play, only it is adapted from the French. I have not seen him yet in the new part, and did nothing for him to get a little more wood to the fire. The critics think it a success. It must be a very difficult thing for an actor so long identified with one part, and such a part as Lord Dundreary, to succeed in anything else; but a man must not be condemned to an eternity of Dundrearies. Miss Kemble still plays Lear, and still the crowd gathers, long before the doors are open, nightly at the new Adelphi.

On Thursday night "Les Huguenots" was performed at the Royal Italian Opera, in honor of Meyerbeer, whose death, at the age of 70, we had just heard of. It must have seemed to the audience like a funeral service to the great composer. Meyerbeer, I must not forget to add, had at this death, just finished a new opera, now in the hands of the French Academy, which ought to be popular in America. It is called "The African," and if translated, might receive the name of "The Negro." I cannot give you the plot, but the music, one may suppose, is the sentimentalism of negro melodies.

I forgot to mention in the proper place, that the [illegible] Mr. Sala is sending us his impressions of Mexico and the Mexicans. According to his account of them, with the exception of a few respectable Spaniards, the men are all robbers, and the women all—no better than they should be. Mr. Sala appears to have sailed from New-York for New-Orleans, but was induced to diverge at Havana, and give the people his observations upon the new empire. The picture he draws is terrible, but not pleasing. I have conversed with intelligent Americans who have lived for years in Mexico, and know the people much better than Mr. Sala is ever likely to know them, and they told a very different story. But Mr. Sala is an artist of the sensational school, and, whether in New-York or Mexico, what he is looking for, or, it that be the more truthful, interesting. It is as easy as ——, quoting a popular proverb. It is but fair to say that his story of "Quite Alone" in All the Year Round, so far, the best he has written.

During the month of April the number of emigrants that sailed from Liverpool was 22,000, nearly 20,000 of whom were destined to the United States. If these enter the army, that is at the rate of 60,000 a year, and that number, well handled, will do a deal of fighting. MONADNOCK.

AMERICAN TOPICS.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.

Mr. Cyrus W. Field returns home in the Persia. He left everything in England in the most encouraging condition for the laying of the Atlantic cable next year. The company had obtained the entire amount of capital necessary to manufacture and lay down the cable.

THE GEORGIA.

In the House of Commons on the 5th May, Mr. W. E. Forster gave notice, on behalf of Mr. Baring, that on the 13th of May he would call the attention of the House to the fact that an armed steamer is now in the port of Liverpool, which, having been originally equipped and manned from British ports, has preyed upon the commerce of a friendly nation, and has never been in any part of the belligerent under whose flag she sails; and to ask the First Lord of the Treasury whether he thinks the admission of such vessels to British harbors consistent with our international obligations, our professions of neutrality, and the preservation of British interests.

THE CASE OF THE SCIENCE.

On the same evening, Mr. Layard, in reply to Mr. Baring, said that the case of the bark Science, of Waterford, which had been seized by a Federal cruiser at Matamoras, was proceeding regularly before a Federal prize court.

THE AMERICAN WAR.

On the 6th, Mr. Lindsay gave notice that on the 3d of June he would call attention to the war in America.

THE CONFERENCE.

It was considered not improbable that the conference might come to an untimely end.

Mr. Disraeli, in the House of Commons, on the 5th, pressed for information as to the proceedings of the conference, but Sir George Grey said it was the unanimous wish of the Plenipotentiaries that the proceedings should be private; he could therefore give no information.

The London Times of the 6th, in an article showing that England has in no degree fallen in her duty to Denmark, and cast in bringing together her conference the British Government acted to the best of its power, concludes as follows:—"We may now add our opinion that the meetings of this assembly will be attended with no good results. The game of waiting for instructions is being played in a manner which proves that the Danish Powers do not care even to show a semblance of respect for the negotiations into which they have entered. Under these circumstances, the project may well be abandoned for a further resistance to Russia be compatible with the dignity of England, and will generally be of benefit to Denmark. When the Conference is at an end, we shall at least be free to act untrammeled by pending negotiations."

The Daily News cannot perceive a single circumstance to encourage the expectation that the Conference may fulfil its original work by restoring peace.

Baron Von Bauer, the Envoy of the German Confederation at the Conference, had been on a visit to Queen Victoria at Osborne.

THE DANISH WAR.

ENGLAND AND THE DANO-GERMAN CRISIS.

A portion of the British channel fleet had sailed for the North Sea to watch the Austrian fleet. The mission was confided to Sir Leopold McClintock, in the frigate Aurora, and the steamer Black Eagle had accompanied the Aurora.

In the House of Commons on the 5th, some inquiries were made as to the departure of the Aurora for the North Sea, and Government explained that she had gone in accordance with constant practice to look after commercial interests on coasts where foreign squadrons were cruising.

Sir G. Gray said Government had received a distinct assurance from Austria that the only object of the squadron was to prevent the blockade of the Ems and Weser.

The London Star asserts there is a minority in the British Cabinet inclined toward a war policy, but it is only a minority, and any attempt to push that war policy into action would result certainly in a breakup of the Cabinet.

THE FEELING BETWEEN ENGLAND AND PRUSSIA.

The Morning Star learns that Earl Russell had declined to grant an audience to the members of the Schleswig and Holstein Estates, who were on a visit to London as delegates to represent the views of the population of the Duchies.

The London Times announces under the heading of "A very questionable honor," the news that the King of Prussia had conferred the order of the Black Eagle on Prince Alfred.

The Daily News says: "The exchange of tokens of friendship between the Courts of England and Prussia, at a moment when the statesmen of the two countries are in flagrant opposition, may be accidental and unmeaning, but it is singularly ill-timed. It is not now that the Queen's second son should be the chief guest at a royal banquet at Berlin, or receiving from the King of Prussia such decorations as fitly award the executioners of Duppel, not is Baron Bunsen—the soul of the war party in Germany, and the statesman who has most distinguished himself by the insolent treatment of our Government—the plenipotentiary whom the public could have expected to see singled out for the hospitalities of our own court.

In the House of Commons, on the 6th, Mr. Newdegate asked whether Her Majesty's Government intended to adopt any measure likely to be more effectual than those which had hitherto been attempted for the purpose of relieving the people and King of Denmark from the oppression to which they are daily subjected.

Sir G. Gray said that a conference was now sitting, and it was hoped that the first results of that conference would be to establish an armistice. Under these circumstances, without anticipating events which had not yet risen, the only answer he could give was, that Her Majesty's Government would continue, in conjunction with the other Powers, to take those measures which they thought most desirable to effect the objects they had in view.

AFFAIRS AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

There is no movement reported from the seat of war. A Copenhagen dispatch announces that the Germans were placing Fredericia in a state of defence, and that the town was being strongly garrisoned. The Germans had occupied Kalo and Abeltoft.

The conditions proposed by the German Powers as indispensable to their acceptance of an armistice, had been declined by the Danish Government, which refuses to raise the blockade of the German ports.

It was reported the Austrians proposed crossing into Fünen.

The war contribution in Jutland had been paid and the hostages set at liberty.

The Prussian Government had suspended for six months the extra navigation dues payable by foreign ships upon a higher scale than Prussian vessels.

GARIBALDI.

Mr. Seely writes to the papers that Garibaldi will not accept the subscription for the purchase of an estate on his behalf. The money is, therefore, to be returned to the subscribers.

ENGLAND.

THE HALIFAX AND QUEBEC RAILROAD.

Mr. Caldwell said the intention of asking Parliament to grant the interest on the money required to complete the railway from Halifax to Quebec had not been abandoned, and was still under consideration.

LORD PALMERSTON'S HEALTH.

Lord Palmerston continued to unwell to attend Parliament, and every improbable rumor had been current, but the Times of the 7th says he was making satisfactory progress toward convalescence.

THE BRAZILIAN DIFFICULTY.

Mr. Layard also stated, in reply to an inquiry, that Government had no official information that the Brazilian Government had accepted the good offices of the King of Portugal, but he understood from the Portuguese Ambassador that he believed it would be accepted, and that friendly relations would be shortly restored between the two Governments.

FRANCE.

The Bank of France had raised its rate of discount to 7 per cent.

A commission had been appointed to discuss the question as to a union between the management of telegraph lines and the Post-office.

The Paris Bourse on the 6th was dull and lower. Rentes, 66.45.

ITALY.

The Bank of Italy had raised its rate of discount to 6 per cent.

The Pope is again reported to be suffering from indisposition.

GREECE.

Fresh disturbances are reported to have broken out at Athens. It was expected that the English and French men-of-war would land troops to protect the National Bank.

The Assembly is said to have voted the expulsion of Count Sponneck, the King's Danish adviser.

TURKEY.

Constantinople advices announce that 60,000 Prussians were concentrated at the mouth of the Danube, and that 20,000 more were expected. Adrianople is also said to have stationed a force of 25,000 men on the Servian frontier. The Porte had resolved that the army in the Roumelia should be increased to 250,000 men.

AUSTRALIA AND NEW-ZEALAND.

Melbourne telegrams, to March 24, report trade dull. The shipments of gold, since the last mail, amounted to 48,424 ounces.

Advices from New-Zealand show that Gen. Cannon had completely defeated the Maories in their stronghold, and the British troops were in possession of the rich country between the Waipa and Waikato Rivers, from which the natives had retired.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

The demand for Money at the Bank of England continued large, even at the advanced rate of 9 ⅌ cent. The charge was as high as 10 ⅌ cent. in exceptional cases. In the open market great caution was displayed, but there was no panic and no symptoms of disorder.

Gold was being taken to the Bank, and a steady influx was expected.

REBEL REPORTS.

Dispatches from Lee and Jeb. Stuart.

The following dispatches from Gen. Lee and the late J. E. B. Stuart are published in Richmond papers of the 12th inst., under the head of "Gratifying Intelligence:"

Spottsylvania Court-house, VIA Guiney's, May 11, 1864.

The Hon. Secretary of War:

Gen. Grant's army is intrenched near this place on both sides of the Stock road. Frequent skirmishing occurred yesterday and to-day, each army endeavoring to discover the position of the other. To-day the enemy shelled our lines and made several assaults with infantry against different points, particularly on our left, held by Gen. R. H. Anderson. The last, which occurred after sunset, was the most obstinate; some of the enemy leaping over the breastworks. They were easily repulsed, except in front of Gen. Doles' brigade, where they drove our men from their position, and from a four gun battery there posted. The men were soon rallied, and by dark our lines were reestablished, and the battery recovered.

A large body of the enemy moved around our left on the evening of the 9th, and took possession of the road about midway between Shady Grove Church and the Court-house. Gen. Early, with a part of Ewell's corps, drove them back this evening, taking one gun and a few prisoners.

Among the wounded are Brig.-Gens. Hayes and H. H. Walker. R. E. LEE.

Headquarters, Ashland, May 11—6½ A. M.

To Gen. Bragg:

General: The enemy reached this point just before us, but were promptly whipped out after a sharp fight by Col. Munford (Fitz. Lee's advance), killing and capturing quite a number.

Gen. Gordon is in the immediate rear of the enemy. I intercept the road the enemy is marching on, at Yellow Tavern, the head of the turnpike, six miles from Richmond.

My men and horses are tired, hungry and jaded, but all right. J. E. B. STUART.

From the Richmond Dispatch, May 12.

The city was full of excitement yesterday. As the local forces were out, and the printers were called "to the front," we are unable to give a very full account of affairs as they transpired, but we think that all the important intelligence relative to the movement upon Richmond is given below:

FROM GEN. LEE.

THE ENEMY AGAIN REPULSED.

The following private dispatch, from Mayor Slaughter, of Fredericksburgh, was received yesterday. It refers to the repulse mentioned in Gen. Lee's telegram:

Guiney's, May 11, 1864.

I came here to obtain information from Fredericksburgh. I hear nothing but the statement that citizens have been arrested as hostages for prisoners we captured there on Sunday.

There was severe fighting yesterday near Spottsylvania Court-house. The Yankees, drunk with liquor, attacked our entire intrenchments, and were repulsed with terrible slaughter.

Musketry firing was heard to-day in the same direction. The news is generally favorable. M. SLAUGHTER.

Some anxiety was felt in the public mind as to the supplies for Gen. Lee's army, which may be removed by the fact that all the railroad damage done by the raiders has been repaired, and Gen. Lee's line of communication is intact.

The North Carolina Refugees.

The following letter from the United States Medical Director of the District of North Carolina is communicated by the lady to whom it was addressed, in hopes that the appeal may meet a ready and generous response from the public. All the blacks from Washington, N. C.—3,000 in number—have been thrown on the hands of those who have been caring for this class of poor in Newbern, and their wants are draining the stores of the Freedmen's Associations. But the whites are entirely unprovided for, and their case should excite the sympathies of all, particularly those who have taken no special interest in the "contrabands." Donations sent to Surgeon Hand or Rev. Horace James, Newbern, N. C., will be gladly distributed to these poor whites, who have given proof of their loyalty in "leaving all to follow us:"

Office of Medical Director, Newbern, N. C., May 7, 1864.

Knowing the interest you have taken in the poor of Newbern during the past Winter, and the material aid you have been able to render them in various ways, I address you now in the hope that you may be able to do something for the suffering refugees from Plymouth and Washington. Owing to recent military movements, the loyal citizens of those towns have been compelled to leave their homes, and in many cases taking with them only the clothing on their backs. About two thousand of this class—a large proportion of them being the wives and children of loyal North Carolina soldiers—are now being sheltered as best we can, at this place, at Beaufort, and at Roanoke Island. The Government furnishes them rations, but they are greatly in need of cooking utensils and clothing. If by any means you can procure some of these things for them you will do much good. Yours respectfully,

D. W. HAND,

Surgeon and Medical Director, Dist. N. C.

The Woman's Infirmary.—This institution will be opened this afternoon. Addresses will be made by Hon. J. W. Edmonds and Rev. Wm. Milburn. It is situated at Washington Heights, and able of its purposes as an infirmary, it is designed to instruct females in it in the care of the sick, in medicines and their application to disease. A number of benevolent ladies have originated and perfected the infirmary, and they look to a time, not far distant, when its benefits will be acknowledged and its usefulness greatly enlarged.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

The "Double-Ender" Boilers—Serious Destruction of Life on Board the Steamer Sassacus—The Department Responsible.

New-York, Monday, May 16, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Nothing is more common than the phrase, "I told you so," after an event; but we are usually so much better prophets then than before, that it generally requires proof to make good the assertion. In consequence of the horrible death by scalding of a number of men on the "double-ender" Sassacus, produced by having boilers above water, which were exploded by the second shot from the "ram" Albemarle, I wish to recall the attention of the country to a letter written by me Dec. 29, 1863, and published in the Times, which was also printed in a pamphlet and addressed to the Secretary of the Navy, and laid upon the desks of members of Congress. In that letter I made the following statements:

"There are some circumstances about these gunboats which are very suggestive, and I will mention them here, leaving others to draw the inferences. There is a plan of boilers known as 'Martin's boilers,' for which Mr. Martin got a patent from the Patent Office, when he was Engineer-in-Chief. These boilers, from their construction, must be high, and if used in the gunboats, must rise above water, and subject the men to a certain and horrible death by scalding, if the ship should be struck anywhere by a shot in action. Numerous other forms of boilers could be used as good as these, and yet be below the water, but no patent fee could be got for them. Mr. Isherwood required the contractors who made these engines to use these boilers, and to pay Mr. Martin a fee for the patent before they could get their money from the Government. The patent, however, does not belong to Mr. Martin, but to Mr. Montgomery, to whom the Patent Office issued it over the one granted to Mr. Martin, upon proof that he, and not Mr. Martin, was the inventor; and so the record stands this day. Yet, Mr. Isherwood compelled the builders to pay Mr. Martin for a boiler which ought never to have been used at all, and the Office to which, if it were to be used, was, by the judicial decision of the Government, acting through the Patent Office, in another man. Mr. Montgomery has demanded his fees for it over again, but as the Government, by its Engineer-in-Chief, has compelled the builders to pay another man for his property, they refuse to pay him, and so he is defrauded. What does that mean?"

In consequence of that letter, a board of engine-builders, who were building these boilers for the navy, was convened, for the purpose of refuting my statements, and "whitewashing" the operations of the Navy Department; but this boiler outrage was too much even for them, and they reported Feb. 6, 1863, as follows: "We are compelled to consider the type of boiler used in these steamers as inferior to the horizontal tubular boiler, which is generally used by other nations and by this country in the mercantile marine." When this report was made, I supposed that even the temptation of the patent fees would be insufficient to carry on the outrage further, but I was mistaken. The department quietly pigeon-holed the report, and went on ordering more of these double-enders on the same plans, and an immense number more of these boilers for other war-vessels, also largely exposed above the water line. When I was examined as a witness before the Congressional Committee recently, I caused this report to be called for by the committee, but it did not come. The call was repeated, but no report appeared, and we waited for it about two weeks—the venerable Secretary of the Navy maintaining all the while a dignified and very proper silence, no doubt considering the committee impertinent. I then produced a copy of the report, which I accidentally had, and from which the above extract is made.

I have watched these double-enders closely, to see when one should go up to a battery, playing the brave men doomed to the most frightful of deaths by the Department, and I believe the Sassacus was the first one that has been struck. It required two shots to scald her crew, which was lucky—one would generally be enough. In the same action the double-ender Matabessett was struck once; and in the same report which tells us of the deaths on the Sassacus, the escape of her gallant fellows is thus stated: "The rebel missile passed within a few inches of the main steam-pipe. Had that been penetrated, all on board might have been scalded to death." All this is horrible enough in itself; but when we know that it is entirely unnecessary, except to get money out of the Treasury, it is appalling. The way in which the department is attempting to evade the consequences now is by inducing the public belief that there are no boilers which can be used except these Martin boilers; and for that purpose one of the party, Mr. Chasseaud, rejoicing in the title of a First Assistant Engineer, published a letter in the Times of the 11th inst., in which he thus asserts that this Martin boiler is a necessity, and not a choice:

"If the Martin boiler is deemed unsafe and inapplicable, what type of generators are we to use? The Montgomery boiler has not been successful; the proof of this is its exclusion from the mercantile service at home and abroad. The flue boiler is not suitable for many reasons, among which are its great dimensions and the difficulty of protecting it from an enemy's shot. The type of boiler lately introduced by E. N. Dickerson is simply a modification of the Martin boiler, with its defects multiplied, and its liability to explosion increased."

It is plain, therefore, according to the navy, that there are but four kinds of boilers possible—the "flue boiler," which is too large; Montgomery's, which is not used by others, and is therefore bad; my boiler, which is dangerous; and Martin's which is used. Of course, the people who wrote that letter knew that the "horizontal tubular boiler," recommended by the Board of Builders, is now in ninety-nine out of every hundred vessels afloat on the ocean in the world, and that it was in use before any "water tubular boiler" was ever made, (being the common locomotive boiler;) and yet its existence is entirely ignored, and the public are to be gulled into a belief that necessity and not patent fees controls this murderous selection.

That this outrage is done knowingly, and not ignorantly, I propose to show in the most conclusive way. The Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy published his "Precedents," in 1869, in which he gives a detailed account of the British light-draft gunboats made for the Crimea, the Baltic and China. In some of these boats the diameter of the boilers was 4 feet 6 inches, (see page 27,) while the boats drew 7 feet 6 inches. The double-enders draw 9 feet, and the boilers could be 6 feet high and yet be below water. On page 39 he describes one of the boilers for the Lynx, of 11 feet draft, thus: "There is one tubular boiler with furnaces at both ends; it is fired from two fire-rooms, one forward and the other abaft the boiler. The tubes, instead of being placed above, are on the same level with the furnaces, and the whole boiler is below the water line." You will perceive that this was neither a "flue boiler," nor yet any of the other sort, which they are now trying to make the country believe are the only ones they could use.

It may be said that these double-ender boilers are more economical than if otherwise arranged, and, therefore, they ought to make the boats worse than useless to face a battery in order to gain the economy; but this same "Precedents" refutes that also. The cost of a horse-power on these British gunboats, with low boilers, is set down at about four and a half pounds of coal an hour; while the cost in these double-enders is from six to eight—never less than six. At the dock, running ninety-six hours, they used eighteen tons of coal a day, turning the wheels from six to nine revolutions a minute, and making, by the indicator, an average of about 200 horse power—or seven pounds of coal an hour a horse-power. I have the indicator diagrams to prove all this, and when the Chenango inquest was held they were proved by those who took them, and no one dared to contradict the statement. But if it were true that these boilers were more economical than horizontal tubular ones, what criminal folly it would be to use them at the cost of certain death, by scalding, of the crew, and the loss of the vessel, at the first fire of an enemy!

I am told that a committee of the Academy of Sciences is now examining the explosion on the Chenango. I make this suggestion: Let one of the double-enders—say the Accutaxy—be fired up with a first-rate fire and run "wide open" without pumping into the boilers for a few minutes, and the Academy would learn something worth knowing on the subject of emptying a boiler. The boat, under these conditions, could not keep a safe quantity of water from the Battery to Staten Island; while any of the East River boats will run for an hour or more without pumping, and would not incur danger in two hours. Indeed, I suppose that with a good heavy fire burning in the furnaces, one of these double-enders could not be run wide open far enough to get out of the East River, without knocking out the cylinder head or keeping the relief valves open all the time. That experiment ought to be tried—it would take no time, and it might be the means of saving many lives hereafter. Won't the President or Congress order it done? Yours, truly,

EDWARD N. DICKERSON.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Arrival of the Seventy-ninth Regiment.

The Seventy-ninth Regiment New-York State Volunteers, after three years of faithful service, returned to this City yesterday morning, their term of enlistment having expired. They were received by the members of the Caledonian Club, and escorted up Broadway amidst the cheering of numerous spectators. The gallant Col. Mosman, though suffering from a wound received in the battle at Spottsylvania Court-house, rode at the head of his regiment. The Seventy-ninth was reviewed about noon, in front of the City Hall, by Mayor Gunther and the Common Council, after which it was escorted by the Sixty-ninth Regiment to the Jefferson Market drill rooms, where the officers and men sat down to a sumptuous dinner. In deference to the wishes of the returning veterans, they were anxious, after so long an absence, to greet their families and their friends, but few speeches—and those short and fitting—were made during the dinner.

The utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed, and every utterance of patriotic sentiment was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

The hard service which the Seventy-ninth has seen during the past three years, is strikingly illustrated by the fact that in May, 1861, it went out 1,000 strong, and returned yesterday with about 250 men in the ranks, and of these, only 120 or 130 were original members of the regiment. Yet there is probably not a man among the survivors who would not willingly shoulder his musket again, should his services be required, and march to the defence of his country as cheerfully and courageously as in the first year of the war.

TROTTING ON LONG ISLAND—TROTTING AT THE FASHION COURSE, MONDAY.

Notwithstanding the counter attractions at the Union Course, Monday, there was quite a large attendance at the Fashion, the match between the gray gelding Dutchman, and the bay gelding Dr. Thomas, exciting a considerable amount of interest between the contestants. The match was originally a play or pay one for $100—but prior to the start the stakes were increased to $1,000 on either side—and the partisans of both of these notorious roadsters mustered in force. Prior to this event coming off there was another little affair decided, which may briefly be dismissed as follows:

Fashion Course, May 17.—Match for $500, play or pay, mile heats, three in five to go as they please.

Littell, names b. m. Widow Wilson.....1 1 1
C. Brooks, names blk. g. Black Warrior.....2 2 2

Time—first heat, 2:45; second heat, 2:45; third heat, 2:46.

In first heat Black Warrior went to harness; in second and third to saddle. Widow Wilson to harness throughout.

The attendance was good, nay, larger than on any previous occasion this season, although it did not include the leading professionals of the trotting turf, but rather the outside dilettanti.

It is somewhat annoying that the Fashion and the Union cannot hitch their horses together, and so arrange their trots as not to interfere with each other, for, as a matter of course, when a trot is announced at both tracks on the same day, the interest and attendance is naturally divided, and both tracks, as a natural sequence, suffer. But to business. The great feature of the day was the play or pay match for $1,000 heats, best 2 in 3 in harness between the gray gelding Dutchman and the bay gelding Dr. Thomas.

Throughout the morning the Doctor had the call at evens, and subsequently 100 to 75 was laid on his winning. The track was in fine trotting condition, and it was generally and properly considered a close thing between this pair of old roadsters, prior to the trotting of the match. It was generally understood that a far larger amount of money was dependant on the result than the original stake, and so the result proved.

First Heat—Dr. Thomas had the pole. After four false attempts, in which the Doctor was invariably "playing possum" and endeavoring to get the best of Dutchman in the start, a tolerably fair one was woven off; but immediately on passing the score the Doctor broke and Dutchman took a strong lead around the turn, and at the quarter pole was some six or eight lengths ahead. Continuing round the back stretch to the half mile, but nearing the three quarters he went up and was followed by the Doctor. Both were quickly down again. They came home up and down; but Dutchman came home an easy winner by three lengths in 2.55¾.

Second Heat.—Four false starts were made, as heretofore, the driver of the Doctor struggling to get far enough away to score at a swinging gait. At last the word was given, and the Doctor got the send-off with a slight lead, but went of his feet immediately. At the turn Dutchman took a strong lead, both drivers exercising their voices; at the quarter there was no alteration, but down the back stretch the Doctor closed the gap which the Dutchman had opened, and at the three-quarter pole he lapped and passed him; both then went up and down, and were wild throughout the home stretch in, the Doctor ultimately winning easily by three lengths in 2:56.

Third Heat.—Three attempts at scoring, in all of which the same tactics were observed on behalf of the driver of the Doctor. At last they got off. Rounding the turn, the Doctor took a strong lead; but at the quarter the Dutchman commenced closing the gap, and in the back stretch lapped him. There was little alteration to the three-quarters, and at the home-stretch the gray took the lead, and came home an easy winner in 2:57—the bay running past the score.

Fourth Heat.—A good start. The Doctor round the turn to the quarter; wide gap open; down the back stretch the same to the half, where the gray was up. At the three-quarter pole the bay went off his feet, but recovering quickly, came home an easy winner by three lengths in 3:01.

Fifth Heat.—After three or four attempts a fair start was effected, the Doctor taking the lead, but, passing the score, going off his feet: Dutchman went in front, continued it all the way round, and came home the easiest of winners, by half a dozen lengths, in 2:54½.

[illegible] Pfeiffer was never arrested in regard to these bonds, or threatened with arrest; I have known Capt. Pfeiffer since August, 1861; have not seen him write; saw Capt. Steiner; have seen him write, and perhaps know the writing. (Fraudulent bills shown witness.) Do not know certainly whether either of these is signed by Steiner; never certified any bill for Steiner or Pfeiffer. Saw the bill once at my house; Capt. Pfeiffer showed it to me; never at any time saw any other bill made out in favor of Pfeiffer for rations. The bill presented me was for $1,400; it was too much; the regiment had paid all expenses for Capt. Pfeiffer's company, except about $100 for back rations; saw that bill for $100; it was claimed out of the regimental fund; it has never been paid by the regiment; Steiner also wished the bill for $1,400 certified; told him that it could never be certified; the other person who spoke about the $1,400 bill was Kohnstamm; after Kohnstamm spoke about it I made an affidavit of the circumstances at Col. Olcott's office; never saw Kohnstamm before he came into witnesses' ante-room in April, 1862; did not know who he was at that time; ascertained who he was from third parties; it was on the last visit that Kohnstamm spoke about the bill; never knew Capt. Lennard; never informed any one of these attempts to pass off upon the Government a false bill; the amount of the bill that Kohnstamm had and wished certified was $1,400; he said he had paid $300 for the bill to Capt. Steiner; he said to me he would like to know whether out of the bill another bill could be made out for about $500; Kohnstamm did not explain how this new bill was to be made out. (Affidavit of witness sworn to at Col. Olcott's read to him and translated by the interpreter.) The prosecution admitted that witness had sworn to this affidavit. Was at Albany when the transaction mentioned in this bill were furnished, for a short time; was at Pfeiffer's house for a few days; he had two or three men there.

Re-direct—Kohnstamm said something about getting my leave extended.

Joseph E. Kerr sworn for the prosecution—Was a clerk in Capt. Lennard's office in 1862 and 1863; the indorsement on exhibit "A" is in my handwriting; it purports that the bill of Louis Pfeiffer for rations to the amount of $1,252 was paid on Aug. 1, 1862. (Checks shown witness.) I went there in August; I took my information from rolls or paper giving the amount of bills paid and the dates, and made the indorsement accordingly.

Captain Carr recalled: I have the memorandum in relation to Pfeiffer's bills; when I made them I was at my desk near Captain Lennard; Captain Lennard ordered me to draw the checks for these bills; do not know if Kohnstamm was present or no.

Q.—You first spoke about a bill of August Meyers for $2,000. What was it?

Question objected to.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

We have important advices from our special correspondent at headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, dated 5 o'clock yesterday morning, at which time the battle was being renewed, skirmishing having just commenced. Dispatches received at the War Department yesterday from Gen. GRANT state that the roads had improved, reinforcements had arrived, and that he should move against the enemy without delay. To-day, therefore, will probably bring news of another great battle.

From Gen. BUTLER there is nothing later than the news contained in Secretary STANTON'S dispatch published yesterday. He is probably safe within his own lines, and holding the Petersburgh and Richmond Railroad.

From Gen. SHERMAN there is news of encouraging progress. He is in rapid pursuit of JOHNSTON, and reports that his animals are doing well on the grass and grain of the green fields of Georgia.

A dispatch from Cincinnati, dated May 18, states that a courier arrived there the previous morning, direct from Gen. CROOK. He has fought three battles near Newbern, with the forces under Gens. MORGAN, SAM JONES and A. G. JENKINS, gaining a complete victory over the enemy. The enemy lost six hundred killed and wounded, and three hundred prisoners. Gen. A. G. JENKINS fell into our hands, mortally wounded. Our loss was four hundred killed and wounded. A railroad bridge over New River at Newbern, with several miles of track, was completely destroyed.

FROM EUROPE.

The Cunard steamship Persia, with Liverpool dates to the 7th, and Queenstown to the 8th inst., arrived at this port, yesterday afternoon. The Germania from Southampton, May 4, arrived at this port, yesterday afternoon. Her Purser obligingly favors us with full files of Hamburg papers, which are anticipated by the Persia. Mr. W. E. FORSTER, acting for Mr. THOMAS BARING, in the House of Commons, had given notice that on the 13th, he would call attention to the return of the privateer Georgia to Liverpool, and would ask the House whether the admission of such vessels are consistent with the international appellation of the country. The case of the bark Science, seized by a United States cruiser at Matamoras, was also referred to in the House of Commons. It was almost universally believed that the Danish Conference would come to an untimely end. The Austro-Prussian fleet (consisting of seven vessels) had gone toward the Baltic. A British fleet, it was alleged, would follow to prevent its entrance to the Sound. The Queen had begun openly to defy public opinion, by extending special hospitality to Baron BEUST, of the Germanic Confederation. Lord RUSSELL had refused to give an audience to agents of the Schleswig and Holstein Estates. The latest telegrams by the way of Queenstown say the Germans had evacuated Jutland, the war contribution having been paid.

GENERAL NEWS.

Yesterday afternoon officer S. BURNS, of Gen HAY'S office, aided by Policeman CARROLL and United States detective DEPEW, took into custody THEODORE ALLEN, by orders of Gen. DIX. The arrest was effected on the corner of Mercer and Spring streets. The prisoner and his numerous friends made great resistance, and at one time it was feared that a rescue would be accomplished. ALLEN drew a pistol and tried to shoot the officers, but fortunately the cap exploded, leaving the pistol undischarged. After getting him across on the east side of Broadway, they were compelled to handcuff him. While doing so, the friends of ALLEN drew their pistols on the officers, and but for the timely interference of Detectives KELSON and RADFORD, who drew their own pistols on the assailants, there would, doubtless, have been bloodshed. The prisoner was finally placed in a Broadway omnibus, chartered for the purpose, and conveyed to the office of Gen. DIX, where an investigation of the case will take place to-day. ALLEN is arrested on several complaints, charging him, in connection with other men, with having swindled recruits at Lafayette Hall out of their bounty money.

About five o'clock yesterday morning, Officer ROBERT THOMPSON, of the Eighteenth Precinct, while in the discharge of his duty, in trying to effect the arrest of a man charged with the commission of a larceny, near the corner of Third-avenue and Twenty-second-street, was attacked by a gang of ruffians, knocked down, kicked, and badly beaten. Not content with this, they fired five pistol-shots at the officer, and then ran away. One of the shots passed entirely through the officer's coat sleeve, and inflicted a flesh-wound above the elbow. Capt. CAMERON, of the Eighteenth, was patroling his precinct at the time, and hearing the shots, gave chase after the rowdies as far as Twenty-fourth-street, where they disappeared in a long row of tenement-houses.

Coroner NAUMANN yesterday commenced an inquest at the Nineteenth Precinct Station-house on the body of Policeman DURYEA, who was instantly killed by a pistol-shot on Monday evening last, on the corner of Second-avenue and Sixty-second-street, while he was in the discharge of his duty, in trying to arrest a man who had beaten another at Jones' Woods. JOHN CONNELL was arrested at the time, on suspicion that he was the one who fired the shot. The testimony taken yesterday, however, fails to implicate him as a principal in the murder. He will probably be held as an accessory. The inquest is adjourned until to-morrow afternoon. The funeral services of the deceased officer were held last evening at an up-town church, and this morning his remains will be taken to Tarrytown for interment.

About 9 o'clock last evening, in pursuance of orders received from Washington, it is believed, Major-Gen. DIX sent detachments of the Reserve Corps to take possession of and close the offices of the World and the Journal of Commerce, in consequence of the publication by those papers of the forged proclamation calling for 400,000 additional men. Mr. HALLOCK, of the Journal of Commerce, was placed under arrest, and officers were sent to arrest the other proprietors of that paper. It was stated that no arrests were made at the office of the World.

In the United States Commissioner's office yesterday, an examination was held in the case of JOHN R. MARSTON, a former employe in the Brooklyn Navy-yard, charged with complicity in some of the recently developed frauds at the yard. The specific charge in this case, was manufacturing a book-case in the yard out of material belonging to the Government and afterward selling it. The evidence was insufficient to hold the accused and he was discharged.

In a case raising the constitutionality of the game laws of 1862, which was now argued on appeal at the General Term of the Court of Common Pleas, that Court held that where parties expose birds for sale in this City, out of season, which were killed in Illinois, in order to avoid the penalty of the law, they must show that the birds were killed in Illinois at a time when it was not illegal to kill them according to the laws of that State.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning, MICHAEL MURRAY, alias "Dick the Gun," was stabbed in the neck with a sheath-knife in the hands of a drunken sailor named WM. PERRY, alias Wm. Thompson, on the corner of Water and Dover streets. One of the main arteries was severed, and MURRAY died from hemorrhage in a short time after. PERRY was arrested, and at the conclusion of the inquest Coroner NAUMANN committed him to the Tombs.

The trial of SALOMON KOHNSTAMM for frauds upon the Government was continued in the United States Circuit Court yesterday. The testimony in regard to the transaction of prisoner and others was interesting. A full report will be found in the law column.

The opinion of Justice PECKHAM, dissolving the injunction restraining the Harlem Railroad Company from running their track through Thirty-first-street to the East River, will be found in the law column.

Flour and Wheat were in good demand yesterday at advanced prices. Corn was scarce and wanted, mixed Western closing as high as $1 50 ⅌ bushel. Provisions were in fair request, and rather firmer. Groceries were quiet. Cotton was freely purchased at a further improvement in prices. Whisky was heavy and drooping. Hay, Tallow and Petroleum were actively sought after. The freight market was quiet, with 605 vessels of all classes in port. Merchants generally were most emphatic in their condemnation of the atrocious hoax, perpetrated by the enemies of the Government, in fabricating a proclamation in the name of President LINCOLN, calling for an additional four hundred thousand men to aid in the suppression of the rebellion. At the Produce Exchange, immediately after the close of the regular business hours, an indignation meeting was organized, and a series of appropriate resolutions adopted.

The forged proclamation of the President of the United States, purporting to call for 400,000 troops, which the Journal of Commerce printed yesterday morning, as under its Washington telegrams, created much excitement in trade and financial circles. Gold at once ran up to 184 ⅌ cent., then down to 181, and closed at 4 o'clock 183 ⅌ cent. The Stock market was higher, and speculation buoyant. Money easy.

An Infamous Forgery.

Yesterday morning, at about 3½ o'clock, a boy left in the business office of the TIMES three pages of this paper, upon which was written what purported to be a proclamation, signed by President LINCOLN, and countersigned by the Secretary of State. It was at once sent to the editorial rooms, and put into the hands of the night Editor. It resembled somewhat the copy usually sent from the office of the Associated Press, though its handwriting was not that which usually comes from that office—and a perusal of the document led the editor to doubt its authenticity. On inquiry he learned that it was not inclosed in the envelope bearing the stamp of the Associated Press, or in any other, and that the boy who left it had, after throwing it upon the counter, instantly left the office. The editor then sent the manuscript to the office of the Associated Press, with an inquiry as to its origin, and received from the person in attendance the following perfectly satisfactory reply:

DEAR SIR: The "Proclamation" is "false as hell," and was not promulgated through this office. The handwriting is not familiar.

Yours truly,

The document was accordingly denied publication in the columns of the TIMES. It appeared, however, in the columns of the World and the Journal of Commerce.

We print the pretended proclamation in another column. Its purport is to order a day of fasting and prayer in consequence of reverses sustained by our arms in Virginia and the probable triumph of the rebellion. It was probably concocted and sent to all the newspapers, at so late an hour as to preclude any close scrutiny into its authenticity, in order that it might go to Europe by the Cunard steamer Scotia, and produce its natural effect upon the foreign markets and foreign sentiment. The object will probably be thwarted, in part at least, by the fact that it was published only in two of the City journals, and those the two most conspicuous for their hostility to the Administration. Nevertheless, all possible use will be made of it by the agents and allies of secession on the other side, and it will undoubtedly produce an effect. Its appearance created a marked excitement and indignation in the City. Gold in Wall-street rose five or six per cent., but fell again as soon as the forgery was exposed. Both the World and the Journal of Commerce posted upon their bulletins a disclaimer of the document, and offered rewards for the detection of the forger.

Last evening possession was taken by the military authorities of the offices of both the papers which published the Proclamation, and their publishers and editors were put under arrest, so far as they could be found. It is understood, though not officially known, that this was done by order from Washington; that the World and Journal of Commerce will not be permitted to appear this morning, and that the persons arrested will be tried by a military tribunal on charge of having irreasonably attempted to give aid and comfort to the enemy.

So far as interest enters into the essence of crime, we do not believe that the editor of either of the journals in question is in the least amenable to so grave a charge. It may be deemed necessary, however, to enforce, by some signal example, upon the conductors of the public press, the necessity of greater caution than has hitherto been exercised in matters of this kind. We are quite sure, however, that Secretary SEWARD, at least, will not exact at the hands of editors a degree of intuitive knowledge as to the authenticity of pretended official documents which even a Secretary of State does not always possess: but it is undoubtedly true, that every newspaper should have an editor who may be held responsible for whatever finds admission to its columns, and that this responsibility should be enforced.

The Associated Press has offered a reward of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the discovery of the forger. We think the Government ought to join in the effort for his detection.

Reopening of the Great Struggle in Virginia.

We have a special dispatch from our correspondent at Lieut.-Gen. GRANT'S headquarters, under date of yesterday morning, 5 o'clock, in these words: "The struggle has this moment begun with skirmishing on our extreme right. We fully expect a great, a bloody, and, we trust, a decisive battle to-day." The progress and result of the day's work—whether the skirmishing swelled into a general battle—whether the two Commanders spent the hours in a game of strategy—whether the issue was for or against the Union arms—we do not yet know.

But this preliminary work gives sufficient proof—if we had not abundant other evidence—that the Lieutenant-General means to indulge in no long period of inaction, and that no obstacles that can possibly be overcome will be allowed to retard the progress of his campaign. In him is embodied the earnestness, the persistency, the endurance, the quickness, the valor, of the American people. He feels all the impatience with treason which is felt by the nation. And not a soldier in the army nor a loyal citizen in the whole land, has more of a single-hearted determination to expend every energy, faculty, and power, in the imperative work of crushing out the rebellion.

We know the great losses his army has already suffered; we hear privately and otherwise of the fearful mud of Virginia; we learn that the soldiers are greatly exhausted with their recent fighting and marching. But we have seen also, under GRANT'S management in the West and in the East, what can be accomplished by able generalship.

There is proof that LEE has succeeded in getting some reinforcements as well as Gen. GRANT, and our correspondent yesterday stated that the rebel General had not abandoned his works on the River Po. It is possible that the contest is yet for Spottsylvania Court-house.

Gen. Sigel's Repulse—Its Lesson.

We have one more victim of "superior forces" to add to the long list which already adorns our military annals. Gen. SIGEL on Sunday last, "fought the forces of ECHOLS and JENKINS under BRECKINRIDGE, at New-Market," and in consequence of the enemy's forces being superior in number, "he gradually withdrew from the battle-field, having lost five pieces of artillery and six hundred killed and wounded." Translated into simpler English, this means that he was well beaten, though not routed.

One does not need to be a professional soldier to arrive at the conclusion, from what has happened in the course of this war, that fighting "superior forces" of the enemy is a losing business. Some of our Generals are constantly doing it, and whenever they do it they are defeated. It seems to us, that this ought to settle the question of its propriety, or rather of its impropriety. Does it not seem, after all that has happened, that it would be well to let the enemy alone, whenever he is found numerically stronger than the attacking force? A battle is not a prize-fight. Its object is not to test either the pluck or endurance of the combatants, but to secure possession of certain positions. And when an enemy is in such force that attacking him is not likely to result in driving him from his position, it is great cruelty to attempt it. When a General, therefore, coolly informs us—and how many Generals have done so!—that he voluntarily, and with the choice of staying quiet or retreating open to him, assails a much heavier force than his own, and gets badly thrashed, it is simply a euphemistic mode of informing us that he is either a very stupid or a very inhuman person.

The war has lasted long enough now to disabuse everybody of the notion that either preeminent bravery, or the justice of our cause, or the baseness or malignity of our enemy, will make one of our brave soldiers a match for three or four rebels. The laws of nature remain in full force during this struggle, as well as during every other, and a bullet fired by the worst traitor that ever pulled a trigger, will crash through the brain of the most loyal man in the army, with just as much ease as if it was discharged in the holiest of causes. Much bloodshed and suffering will be saved, if, even at this late hour, this plain truth is recognized by our minor Generals. Our advice to them is—and we offer it with becoming deference, and with the full knowledge that it is not to be found in JOMINI—that whenever they find the enemy in greatly superior force (and they find him in this condition apparently very often) they had best let him alone. He is apt under these circumstances to be dangerous. "Withdraw gradually" from his vicinity, and wait till you get more men. By so doing you will meet probably bring off all your artillery, the wounded will be likely to walk off, and the dead will live to fight another day. As soon as you find that you are far stronger than he, then fall on him, and do not let your soul be moved by his lamentations. Do not be ashamed of thrashing him because he is the weaker. It may look mean and shabby, but war is war, and provided you win, the world will not look carefully into the disparity of forces. This is not professional advice, but if it had been followed, we venture to say forty or fifty thousand poor fellows who are now dead or crippled, would to-day be alive and well.

The Early Birds.

A month ago there was a general and clamorous demand, on the part of a certain school of politicians, for the postponement of the Baltimore Convention. It was too soon to nominate a Presidential candidate. The country would not tolerate so early an opening of the Presidential canvass. Public sentiment ought to be harmonized, united, consolidated, before anything should be said about candidates, and this could not be done before the 7th of June.

Curiously enough, these same politicians are now making the country ring with calls for a Presidential convention at Cleveland on the 31st of May—a week earlier than the day appointed for the Baltimore Convention. Three calls are already out. First came one from some Western radicals, mainly German, who did not approve of President LINCOLN, and wanted somebody else nominated. Next came another from Rev. Dr. CHEEVER and sundry associates, who denounced the "imbecility" of the Administration, and demanded the nomination of Gen. FREMONT on the basis of negro equality. And now we have another from Albany, headed by Comptroller ROBINSON, calling on people in general to go to Cleveland and see what they can do about the Presidency.

This is all well enough. The right of the people "peaceably to assemble" is guaranteed by the Constitution, and has not yet been abolished. We hope all these gentlemen, who can afford it, and can be conveniently spared from home, will go to Cleveland and come to an understanding among themselves on the various doctrinal points they propose to introduce into the coming canvass. But is it not too early to open the Presidential canvass? Or is it only too early for the friends of Mr. LINCOLN to have anything to say on the subject? When did these gentlemen discover that the 7th of June was too soon, but the 31st of May just about the right time?

The Tribune and Gen. McClellan.

The Tribune, in an editorial notice of Mr. RAYMOND'S History of President Lincoln's Administration, says:

"By the way, Mr. RAYMOND should be very careful of his facts. He states positively, on page 400, that

'Gen. MCCLELLAN, while in command of the Department of the Ohio, entered into an agreement with Gen. BUCKNER, by which the substantial neutrality of that State [Kentucky] was recognized and respected.'

"As we at that time believed in and upheld Gen. MCCLELLAN, we must respectfully deny this statement and challenge the proof. It cannot be true, and we are confident is not."

Mr. GREELEY is writing a history of the rebellion: we hope he will not, in that work, ignore, or "deny" the facts of history simply because he was, at the time of their occurrence, pursuing a course inconsistent with them; and before he completes it, we trust he will refresh his memory at least upon points of so much notoriety as Gen. MCCLELLAN'S arrangement with Gen. BUCKNER.

The following letter from the General, addressed to the Governor of Kentucky, will probably convince the Editor of the Tribune that Mr. RAYMOND had sufficient authority for the statement in question:

HEADQUARTERS KENTUCKY STATE GUARD, LOUISVILLE, June 10, 1861.

SIR: On the 8th inst., at Cincinnati, Ohio, I entered into an arrangement with Maj.-Gen. GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN, Commander of the United States troops in the States north of the Ohio River, to the following effect:

The authorities of the State of Kentucky are to protect the United States property within the limits of the State, to enforce the laws of the United States in accordance with the interpretations of the United States Courts, as far as those laws may be applicable to Kentucky, and to enforce with all the power of the State our obligations of neutrality as against the Southern States, as long as the position we have assumed shall be respected by the United States.

Gen. MCCLELLAN stipulates that the territory of Kentucky shall be respected on the part of the United States, even though the Southern States should occupy it; but in the latter case he will call upon the authorities of Kentucky to remove the Southern forces from our territory. Should Kentucky fail to accomplish this object in a reasonable time, Gen. MCCLELLAN claims the right of occupancy given the Southern forces. I have stipulated in that case to advise him of the inability of Kentucky to comply with her obligations, and to invite him to dislodge the Southern forces. He stipulates that if successful in so doing, he will withdraw his forces from the territory of the State, as soon as the Southern forces shall be removed.

This, he assures me is the policy he will adopt toward Kentucky.

Should the Administration hereafter adopt a different policy, he is to give me timely notice of the fact.

The well-known character of Gen. MCCLELLAN is a sufficient guarantee for the fulfillment of every stipulation on his part.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

S. B. BUCKNER, Inspector-General.

To His Excellency, B. MAGOFFIN, Frankfort, Ky.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT AND THE DOUBLE-END GUNBOATS.—We publish in another column a letter from Mr. E. N. DICKERSON, on the recent destruction of the "double-end" gunboat Sassacus, her boiler having been struck and exploded by a shot from a rebel battery. Mr. DICKERSON reprints a paragraph from a letter published by him in the TIMES, of December, 1862, in which he warned the Navy Department and the country that the kind of boilers required to be put into these gunboats must of necessity rise above water, and be exposed to shot, and that if struck, they would explode, and endanger the life of every man on board. He calls attention also to the fact that a Board of Engineers was convened to inquire into this matter, and that they reported against the use of these boilers for the reasons assigned; but the Navy Department pigeon-holed this report, and went on putting these same boilers into every gunboat built under its directions. The results are beginning to be apparent in such incidents as the explosions on the Chenango and on the Sassacus.

This matter demands the attention of President LINCOLN and Congress. It is utterly useless to ask the interposition of the Navy Department, for that department is wedded to a theory and a policy of its own, which it is determined to carry out at all hazards and at any cost of money, reputation and life. By what motive it is prompted to this course it is not for us to say. The boilers used by its orders pay a patent fee to somebody;—the boilers which experience shows to be infinitely better, in every way, do not. Whether this fact has anything to do with the action of the department we cannot say, for we do not know; but it is somebody's business to inquire.

Nor can all these questions concerning the construction of these gunboats be disposed of by the assertion that Mr. DICKERSON is a humbug, a charlatan or a rascal. He may be all these,—but that does not relieve the Government from the necessity of inquiring into a matter of such infinite importance to the country as the safety and serviceableness of the enormous fleet now constructing under the direction of the Navy Department. The statements which he makes are not to be disproved, nor ought the country to be hoodwinked in regard to them, by attacks upon his personal character, whether true or false. He puts those statements into unmistakable English, and stands ready at any time, before any competent and disinterested tribunal, to sustain them. If they are true, we are building, at a cost of millions upon millions of dollars, a class of war-vessels more dangerous by far to the men on board than to the enemy. One would suppose the Government would consider this matter worthy of inquiry. It can scarcely be disposed of on personal grounds. No amount of vituperation can settle a scientific question, or decide upon the merits of different styles of boilers.

President LINCOLN would do himself justice and the country a service by ordering a board of capable and disinterested men, not connected with or in any way dependent upon the navy or any other department, to investigate this whole matter. We should then stand a chance of knowing something about the navy we are constructing.

Fast Drifting Toward War.

The news from Europe by the Persia is of deep significance. Following close in the track of the Austro-Prussian squadron, which was making its way toward the Baltic, a British frigate, under command of Sir L. MCCLINTOCK, had set sail, it is said, as the first of a British fleet which will oppose the entrance of the German men-of-war into the Sound. The English press, almost without exception, is agreed that consideration, not only for the honor, but for the material interests of England, now require that her naval power shall be exerted to bar the entrance of the Baltic to the Austrian force, and to prevent any additional pressure being brought to bear upon Denmark.

The step thus tardily taken, or about to be taken, (as is alleged,) by the British Government, has almost the effect of a declaration of war; it is an act of direct hostility toward one of the belligerents, and in that character it will be hailed with delight by the whole nation, with but one exception—that exception being the most important that could be named. The QUEEN no longer takes sides secretly with the German despoilers. The most inveterate and astute of the prime movers in the invasion of Denmark, the Baron BEUST, is specially singled out for the hospitalities of the Court at Osborne; while the second son of the Queen is ordered to Berlin to be the recipient of the hospitalities of the Prussian Sovereign, and to accept the questionable honor of decorations at his hand.

This defiance by the Queen of the public opinion of the nation has called forth protests such as have not been heard since the commencement of the present reign, and which will assuredly hasten a crisis in the relations of the people of England and of the empire toward the reigning sovereign. Another crisis also appears to be fast approaching.

The National Guard.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I am a member of the National Guard, and have hoped, while the Spring lasted, that our regiment might receive marching orders. Shall the Summer come and go, and we remain idle during this dreadful crisis? There has been no time since the 1st of March, when our trained militia could not render valuable aid; and, just now, who will deny that an imperative necessity demands their presence in the field—to take batteries or to take care of them. I for one am prepared to go, if need be without pay, for three or six months; numbers of my acquaintance are willing to do likewise. Is it fair to deprive us of the honor of assisting, when our assistance would be so acceptable? Will New-York stand aloof while all her sisters are pressing forward to the rescue?

The Prize Young Republic.

BOSTON, Wednesday, May 18.

The British steamer Young Republic, which was captured on the 6th inst., off Wilmington, N. C., by the United States steamer Grand Gulf, arrived here this evening in charge of Acting-Ensign CHAS. H. FERRIS and a prize crew. She was chased six hours before she was taken. Her cargo consists of 600 bales of cotton and about seventy tons of tobacco. The Young Republic was built in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1853, and is 869 tons register. Her engines were built by JAMES MURPHY, of the Fulton Iron Works. She can make average speed of fourteen knots.

Arrival of the Prize at Stonington.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

ENCOURAGING ENLISTMENTS.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) offered a joint resolution to encourage enlistments, and promote the efficiency of the military forces of the United States as follows:

Resolved, That for the purpose of encouraging enlistments and promoting the efficiency of the military and naval forces of the United States, it is hereby enacted that the wife and children, if any be have, of any person that has been, or may be, mustered into the military or naval service of the United States, shall, from and after the passage of this act, be forever free, any law, usage, or custom, to the contrary notwithstanding; and in determining who is the wife and who are the children of the enlisted person herein mentioned, evidence that he and the woman claimed to be his wife have lived together, associated as husband and wife, and so continued to live and associate all the time of the enlistment, or that a form of marriage, whether the same was or was not authorized by law, has been celebrated between them, and that the parties thereto lived together or associated as husband and wife and so continued to live or associate as the time of the enlistment, shall be deemed sufficient proof of a marriage valid for the purpose of this act, and the children of any such marriage born while the same continued, although it had ceased at the time of enlistment, shall be deemed and taken to be the children mentioned in this section.

Referred to the Military Committee.

OVERLAND TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION.

Mr. CONNESS, of California, (Union,) introduced a bill amending the act of 1860 to facilitate telegraphic communication between the Atlantic and Pacific States, restricting the amount payable by the Government for messages to the sum stipulated in the bill, and providing for the free use of the line for purposes of Coast Survey Observatory and the Smithsonian Institution. It also limits the charges to California newspapers to two cents.

Referred to the Committee on the Pacific Railroad.

DISTRICT COURTS OF NEW-YORK.

Mr. HARRIS, of New-York, (Union,) reported from the Judiciary Committee a bill to regulate the sessions of the Circuit and District Courts of the Northern Districts of New-York, with an amendment striking out the provision which changes the present salary to $3,500.

Mr. WILSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported the House joint resolution ceasing the pay of staff officers on the staff of the Lieutenant-General. It places them on an equality as to pay and emoluments with corps staff officers.

THE TARIFF DECISIONS.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Maryland, (Union,) presented a memorial of the Chamber of Commerce of New-York, complaining that a decision of the Secretary of the Treasury bears hard on the merchants of that City and other seaports. The decision is, that the recent enactment increasing duties on imports took effect on the 20th of April, and that all who paid duties at the former rates are liable to pay the additional fifty per cent. The memorialists say that they cannot recognize the justice of being obliged the second time to pay duties on merchandise for which they have received landing permits. They urge that if the joint resolution adding 50 per cent. to the duties on imports was a law on Friday, it should have been known Friday to the merchants of New-York and elsewhere, and that it was not known till Saturday, April 30, at half past 1 in the afternoon. They claim that, under the decision of the Secretary, the joint resolution would be an ex post facto law.

Mr. JOHNSON said that the decisions of the courts supported the memorial. They had decided that the importation was complete on the arrival of the vessel at port. He was convinced that the Secretary of the Treasury was in error, and that the application of the memorialists should be sustained.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

LAND AID TO RAILROADS.

Mr. HARLAN, of Iowa, (Union,) reported back from the Committee on Public Lands the bill granting lands to the State of Michigan to aid in the construction of railroads, with amendments.

It was passed.

The House bill granting lands to the State of Iowa for similar purposes, with amendments, was passed.

THE PRINTING OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

The bill, to expedite the printing of public documents, was passed with an amendment, repealing the clause in the law authorizing the Postmaster-General to print the report of the office and contracts for mail service.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD BILL.

Mr. HOWARD, of Michigan, (Union,) called up an amendment as a substitute for the Pacific Railroad bill, and it was read at length.

Mr. HOWARD said that in the bill of 1862, incorporating the railroad company, it was proposed to issue United States interest bonds for the building of the road. The substitute now offered prohibited the issue of any Government bonds either to the Union Pacific Railroad Company or any other connected with it. The substitute provides that the company shall be authorized to issue their corporate bonds for the purpose of raising money to build the road, and the Government agrees to guarantee to holders of those bonds the interest upon them for twenty years, the bonds themselves remaining for thirty years. The first year's interest on the bonds is credited to the company. Provided the company fails to pay the interest, the United States pays it; and the United States is entitled to all the rights of the original bondholders. Instead, therefore, of the United States becoming a debtor in this great enterprise, it becomes a guarantor of the payment of the interest on its bonds only for twenty years. The other sections are merely intended to carry out these great objects in detail. The liability of the United States will be less under this measure than under the law of 1862.

On motion of Mr WILSON, the Senate went into Executive Session, and afterwards adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 18.

PROMOTION FOR DISTINGUISHED CONDUCT.

A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Military Affairs to inquire into the expediency of providing for the promotion of non-commissioned officers and privates distinguished for good conduct and bravery in the field, as officers of the line.

THE CASE OF MR GARRETT.

The Speaker laid before the House a reply from the Secretary of the Treasury to the inquiry relative to Mr. Garrett. He says that such a person was employed in the Treasury Department, but that he had no knowledge of his ever having been in the rebel service. On receiving such charges against him he was dismissed. He was appointed on the recommendation of Hon. J. C. ALLEGHANY, Judge of the Eastern District of Virginia.

PUNISHMENT OF GUERRILLAS.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) asked leave to introduce a bill for the more speedy punishment of guerrillas, so as, he said, to protect our wounded soldiers; but Mr. ELDRIDGE, of Wisconsin, and Mr. ROSS, of Illinois, objected.

THE PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. JULIAN, of Indiana, (Union,) from the Committee on Public Lands, reported a bill providing for the issue of patents to issue for holders of "floats," issued in pursuance of the act of Congress of 1855 relative to parish grants in Louisiana. The number of acres covered by these "floats" is 15,000, and the Act of 1855 allows them to be located upon any public lands subject to private entry and public sale. A large portion of them have been located in Michigan, and the bill simply authorizes the General Land Office to issue patents and the proper evidence of title. Bill passed.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the joint resolution heretofore reported from the Committee of Commerce, proposing such action as will insure more perfect reciprocity of trade between the United States and British North American provinces.

Mr. ELIJAH WARD, of New-York, then addressed the House at length on the subject.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

At the conclusion of Mr. WARD'S speech the morning hour expired, and the House went into Committee of the Whole, on the State of the Union, Mr. FRANK, of New-York, in the chair, and proceeded to the consideration of the Indian Appropriation Bill. Various amendments were made, but of no especial importance, when the committee rose and the bill was reported to the House, but not finally acted upon.

Adjourned.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE COLUMBIA COLLEGE LAW SCHOOL.—A large audience assembled last evening at the Historical Society Building, corner of Eleventh-street and Second-avenue, on the occasion of the fifty annual commencement of Columbia College Law School. Among the distinguished guests present on the stage were Hon. H. B. Ruggles, Horace Webster, Esq., Profs. Dwight, McVickar and Leiber. The proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. E. C. DUTTON, Chaplain of the College, after which Prof. THEODORE W. DWIGHT, LL.D., delivered an eloquent address; subject, The History and Theory of Legal Education. The valedictory by EDWARD WHITMORE, and the awarding of prizes closed the proceedings.

THE DUNDERBERG.—The machinery of this ironclad ram necessary to be put on board the vessel before she is launched, is nearly completed and will be put in position next week.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The gratitude and admiration of theatrical people, move in mysterious ways. Several prominent actors give to-night a testimonial entertainment to Mr. DAN BRYANT, a gentleman who receives a testimonial benefit every night in the shape of a crowded audience to his negro minstrel hall. Mr. BRYANT's ambition extends beyond the sphere of an "end man." He is said to be an excellent actor; and peculiarly felicitous in the delineation of Irishmen. Hence he plays Handy Andy in the place of that name, being supported by first-rate talent. Mr. DAN BRYANT has so many admirers that the Academy is sure to be crowded to its greatest capacity. Two small pieces will precede the drama.

THE FIRE KING.—A few invited guests were treated to a novel spectacle yesterday afternoon at Sonny Wood. Signor CAMPBELLO BUONO COMO was making enough to roast himself for their private gratification. The gentleman, let us hasten to explain, is a salamander. This will comfort the initiated, whilst for the baser few who have never seen a salamander, except in the form of a safe, we will add that the creature has two legs, and walks upright, like ordinary mortals; but, unlike ordinary mortals, it has an extraordinary, and, it seems to us, a rather weak preference for warm places. When Signor BUONO COMO made his appearance, he had apparently forgotten his head, but an assistant brought it to him, and he put it on with much presence of mind and politeness. The effect was slightly ridiculous, for the salamander's head bears a striking resemblance to a beer at Sandy Hook, and one felt sorely tempted to catch hold of it with a boat-hook. Indeed, in more than one respect, the salamander has an aqueous aspect. His tout ensemble (shall we be pardoned for speaking so flippantly of a Fire King's appearance?) is that of a diver. The same airy grace pervades his garments, and the same interesting glass goggles ornament his helmet. There is an important difference in the color of the salamander. He is eternally, inexorably, monotonously red. A diver, we are aware, is generally blue, like a lobster; but might he not, under certain culinary conditions, assume a livelier tone? The salamander, we infer, is like a diver—boiled.

A neat little tower was constructed of chip and brushwood, and a gentleman—probably a young salamander, and still in the blue state—set light to it. The wind was high, and there was soon a good blaze, hot enough to force the curious back from their positions, and to cause the young salamander to look red in the face. The old salamander began to make himself at home. He stepped into the roaring mass; walked leisurely among the flames; made his appearance at the four entrances of the structure, and remained frying and cooking until the light material was all consumed. He then came out and complained that he wasn't quite done. Some of the wood, it seems, was green, and, as it did not burn quite briskly, the poor fellow felt a little "rare."

The entertainment was curious, and may lead to practical results. Signor BUONO COMO claims that he has invented a dress, by which firemen and others may pass through, and even remain for some minutes in the midst of fire and smoke. There is no doubt that the Signor made good this claim yesterday. Wherever the flames were fiercest he placed himself, and although his helmet cracked and huge blisters of a saline character (reminding us once more of the diver theory) bulged out on it, he himself was safe and sound; neither spent in wind, nor flushed in face. Such a contrivance certainly merits attention in a humanitarian point of view. The Fire Department, in particular, should look into the matter.

BROADWAY THEATER.—This once popular establishment (late Wallack's) was reopened for a dramatic season on Monday evening, having previously undergone the important operations of cleaning, painting, &c. In its present dress it is a bright and pleasant little establishment. The opening piece was one of FANNY KEMBLE's dramatic efforts called "An English Tragedy," a work displaying literary ability and knowledge of stage progression, but repulsive in the material of its plot, conventional in its characters, and not very interesting in any point of view. The part of the heroine should be played by a young actress. It is intructed here to a lady who has assuredly passed the period for such business, and whose experience, moreover, has not warned her of the immodesty of ranting. The lover scene of the third act was undignified, preposterous and stormy to a ridiculous degree. The lover, by the way, was strongly and creditably played by Mr. SHIRLEY FRANCE—a new name to us. Mr. D. W. WALLER, as the aged husband of a young and erring wife, was exceedingly good. The remaining characters, with the exception of a little part by Mrs. SLOAN, were not strongly cast. The house was poorly attended.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—The new sensation drama of "Bel Demonio" was produced at this house on Monday evening. Mr. JOHN BROUGHAM is accredited with the authorship, but "Bel Demonio" can be traced back to an earlier French origin. Thirteen years ago Mr. DION BOUCICAULT had discovered the original. With remarkable skill he converted it into a drama called "Sixtus the Fifth," being assisted in his labors by Mr. JOHN V. BRIDGMAN. This piece was played at the Olympic Theatre, London, in 1861. Subsequently, Mr. BOUCICAULT remodeled and abbreviated the work, changing its name to the "Pope of Rome," under which title it was played at Niblo's Garden in October, 1862. The only important difference between the "Pope of Rome" and "Bel Demonio," is that the first-named piece is well written, while the other is contemptible in language, and slovenly in characterization. The situations are, of course, the same in both plays, with the exception of a preposterous leap in Mr. BROUGHAM's version, which brings down the house, and serves no other purpose. In all essential respects Mr. BOUCICAULT's play is so much superior to Mr. BROUGHAM's that we cannot help expressing our amazement at Mr. WEMYSS's preference for the latter. It may be added, however, that in any form the situations make it an effective and interesting drama.

The character of Mentolio is historical. He was a dependent of a noble Italian family, and a wily aspirant to the pontifical chair. Knowing that to become Pope, he must abnegate all personal ambition, and present himself to his patrons in the light of an insignificant and easily handled tool, he assumed the tottering gait, and wheezing garrulity of extreme and decrepid age. The times were favorable to the elevation of some one who could keep the chair warm, without occupying it too long, and so with the assistance of people who he despised, Mentolio became Pope. No sooner was the election confirmed, than he cast from him the crutch that had guided his trembling steps; he became at once erect in stature, and firm in voice; a friend of the people, an opponent of faction, a terror to the families that had sought to make him their tool. When it was asked why he had assumed the stooping gait, and the appearance of age, he replied quickly that he had been looking for the keys of St. Peter and had found them.

Around this telling incident the dramatist has twined a pleasant garland of fiction. As it is obvious that Mentolio must have had assistance from some one, it is given to him here in the person of Angelo—a son of a popular favorite, who retains the power of shoving the masses. This strapping youth loves the daughter of one of the great families, and is beloved. The difficulties in the way of their union, however, are insuperable. No alternative is presented to the lady but to marry an Orsini (and so cement an alliance with the opposition family) or take the veil. From both of these evils Angelo rescues her, and with the assistance of Mentolio obtains her hand in the last act. Angelo by fact by outside pressure does much toward securing the election of Mentolio, and he in a spirit of just reciprocity does all that is needed to secure his friend's happiness. Let us add that the machinery by which all this is effected is good, and that there is hardly a dull moment in the play from beginning to end.

The part of Angelo was played by Mlle. VESTVALI, and we are glad to say with more ability than we were able to detect in her impersonation of Gemma. In the last act her assumption of the white boy was really excellent. The lady has made several additions to her stock of English since we last heard her, and although she pitches her voice rather lower than youth, and the custom of love-making requires, she is not absolutely indistinct. Mr. HADDE, late of the Winter Garden, was the Mentolio. He gave a fair representation of the part, but overweighted himself somewhat in the matter of age, and so was unable to preserve the manner of senility to the end. Mr. BOUCICAULT in his stage directions for the part says, "the true height of the actor should be disguised until the fifth act." Mr. HADDE allowed his youth to appear many times before the grand climax, and so detracted from its intensity. Mr. COLLIER, as Fabio, was simply very bad; and Mr. NUNAN (of the Coast, no better. Mr. DUNBETT as Ranuccio failed to individualize the part with any distinct traits, although it is susceptible of a very clear and agreeable characterization. He gave his lines, however, with heartiness and gusto, and so was acceptable. By far the best played part in the whole play was the Lena of Miss ROSE EYTINGE, a lady of whom we have had two previous occasions of speaking in the highest terms of approval. The role is picturesque rather than powerful; essential to the poetic sense, but not vital in the matter of action. Such a part in ordinary hands would be lackadaisical and doilist. Miss EYTINGE throws into it a chaste spirit of purity, a gentle earnestness of purpose, a tender and sympathetic realism which elevate it completely above its very common range of mere lingual expression. We do not remember to have seen a small part so deliciously rendered. In quietness, grace, and the womanly quality of compelling sympathy, it was perfect. We are sorry we cannot say the same of Miss MARY WELLS, who played the part of the Countess. This generally excellent actress was undoubtedly out of her line of business, and could not disguise the fact from the audience. A peasant girl, Margarita, was very prettily played by Mrs. SKERRETT.

We have nothing but unlimited praise to bestow on the manner of production of "Bel Demonio." The scenery and costumes were alike admirable; indeed, the opening scene deserves to be regarded as a work of art, so excellent is it in all its details. There was, on the first night, some delay in the representation; but the audience remained faithfully to the end, and recorded a distinct verdict of approval. We may conclude, therefore, that Mr. WEMYSS has made a judicious investment for the Summer months.

WINTER GARDEN.—The return of the FLORENCES to this establishment Monday evening brought with it the ever-acceptable "Ticket-of-Leave Man," a play which seems to grow on the public appetite with increased familiarity. Mr. FLORENCE's Robert Underley is certainly one of the best parts he has given to the public. It has a simple and natural pathos of its own, which, whilst it can hardly be improved, has fortunately not suffered by success and repetition. It is as good to-day as it was on the opening night. The general distribution is the same as heretofore, with the exception of Hawkshaw, the detective, who now finds an intelligent representative in Mr. KINGSLAND.

The house was excellently filled, and the performance went off with the usual spirit and success. The "Ticket-of-Leave Man" will, we presume, be repeated until further notice.

MR. RAYMOND'S HISTORY OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S ADMINISTRATION.—Mr. HENRY J. RAYMOND has rendered the American public a real service by compiling a "History of the Administration of President Lincoln, including his Speeches, Letters, Addresses, Proclamations and Messages, with a preliminary sketch of his Life"—forming a neat octavo volume of 496 pages, just issued by DERBY & MILLER, No. 5 Spruce-street. Politicians of all classes will find the book exceedingly convenient for reference. * * *

When we state that the chief value of this work, for the politicians inhere in the documents it embodies, we state only what the author, we are sure, would heartily assent to. But it is moreover a well-arranged, readable, interesting book, which every one interested in our country's welfare may read with pleasure and profit. We bespeak for it a prompt and general circulation.—Horace Greeley, in the Tribune, May 17.

The New-York Evening Post says of ALEXANDER SMITH's "Dreamthorp": "It is quite the most charming of our recent foreign reprints. English reviewers rank it with GOLDSMITH's "Deserted Village," and "Vicar of Wakefield."

Morton's Gold Pens are now sold at the same prices as before the commencement of the war; this is entirely owing to the Manufacturer's improvements in machinery, his present large Retail Business and Cash-in-Advance System; for, until he commenced advertising, his business was done on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, as the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c.; but Morton has in no case changed his prices, wholesale or retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pen can be obtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted.

Reader, you can have an enduring, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens; and at the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Morton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," in another column.

A Word to "Smokers."

'Tis not our intention to preach a reform against the growing and laudable use of the weed, for it is a luxurious comfort. What gentleman, we ask, old or young, who is addicted to this habit of enjoyably himself behind a good Havana, particularly after a hearty meal, will dispute us. We speak from experience, for we often indulge in a good cigar ourselves; but what we wish to suggest is, try that justly-popular, fragrant, convenient and odorless dentifrice, SOZODONT. Just the thing after smoking; removes instantly the unpleasant taste and odors attendant on the use of tobacco; 'tis refreshingly agreeable, and leaves the mouth cool and sweet.

U. S. 10-40 BONDS.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1860, which provides that all Bonds issued under this act shall be REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption, FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually, and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year. As these Bonds, by act of Congress, are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

OVER EIGHT PER CENT. INTEREST in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

The Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 31 day of March, 1864, was $761,968,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,037,135, while the customs' revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $160,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to $150,000,000 per annum.

The authorized amount of this loan is Two Hundred Million Dollars. Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued until March 26, but the amount of Bonds reported sold at the United States Treasury up to May 14 was

Subscriptions will be received by the TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES at Washington, and the ASSISTANT TREASURERS at New-York, Boston and Philadelphia, and by the

THE DRAFT POSTPONED.

TWELVE HUNDRED VOLUNTEERS WANTED.

A CHANCE FOR PATRIOTS!

It having been determined that the City of New-York is deficient only TWELVE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEEN men, in its quota under the President's call for 300,000 men, the Draft has been postponed for a few days, in order to enable the filling of the quota, if possible, by volunteering.

The County Volunteer Committee now appeal to the patriotism of the citizens of this County to aid them in raising the Twelve Hundred and Seventeen Men needed, and thus save the County from the misfortune of a Draft.

The County Volunteer Committee will pay the following bounties until further notice:

FOR ARMY RECRUITS	$300
FOR MARINES	300
FOR NAVAL RECRUITS FOR THREE YEARS	300
FOR NAVAL RECRUITS FOR TWO YEARS	200
FOR NAVAL RECRUITS FOR ONE YEAR	100

A County premium of $10 will also be paid for bringing an army recruit to this office, in addition to the Government premium of $10, and a County premium of $20 will be paid for bringing a naval recruit.

THE CASE OF HUTCHINGS, THE "LIGHTNING CALCULATOR."

There was published in these columns a few days since the remarkable cure of Hutchings, the "Lightning Calculator," so well known to the public during the many years he exhibited his wonderful arithmetical powers at Barnum's Museum, by the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Hutchings is represented to have been at the point of death, and but for the timely interference of the Doctor, would now be resting in his grave. This is a remarkable case, and worthy of the attention of persons similarly afflicted.

We think it is but just to Doctor Von Eisenberg to call public attention to this case. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, who, like the "Lightning Calculator," if not actually praying for death, are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is within his power to make them whole or not.

EARS TO THE DEAF.

Every man, and especially every woman, believes in his or her physician. There are philosophical minds which hold to an abstract faith in Allopathy, or Homœopathy, or Hydropathy, or some other form of delusive cure; but with the world at large the belief is not in the system, but in the doctor. Especially is this true as regards aurists and oculists. The patient who has recovered his sight or his hearing is sure that the blessing could have been restored to him by no other practitioner than that particular one by whom his eyes or ears were opened. Dr. Von Eisenberg is among our best-known aurists. He has not lost an ear as a brother practitioner has eyes, and in whose skill, therefore, we believe above all others. But we hear of him from those who esteem him not merely as a surgeon, but as a benefactor. A recent case has been related to us, for the truthfulness of which we can vouch, though we can name no names. The patient was a lady who had been deaf from infancy, as a consequence of some of the ailments to which children are liable. Latterly the disease had taken an acute form, and the patient was subject to intense suffering. The deafness was rapidly becoming complete, and the general health breaking down under the physical exhaustion attendant upon constant pain. Ordinary remedies and ordinary advice were useless, and Dr. Von Eisenberg was called in. We need not repeat his diagnosis, for that would be only a list of hard names to the general reader. But he detected at sight the seat of disease, first in one portion of the organism, then in another, and with manipulation as skillful as his insight was accurate, he removed the causes, and she who, from infancy, had heard with difficulty, and latterly hardly at all, was restored first to perfect hearing and then to perfect health. Dr. Von Eisenberg's advertisement reminds us of this case, which we thus briefly relate, though not at his solicitation. Let him that hath not ears, hear.

From the Christian Times.

SIGHT RESTORED.

CONCERNING EYES AND OCULISTS.

Of the five senses, that which we call seeing is the most important and most valued. In proportion as this sense fails us, we are reduced to helplessness. If entirely destitute of sight, how slow would be our progress in knowledge, and how limited our sphere of action and usefulness. Endowed with it, the universe becomes a new creation, clothed with beauty and diversified by that infinite variety which never fails to attract the mind and heart.

For several months past this has been a practical subject to us. An inflamed condition of the eyelids communicating itself to the pupil, rendered the discharge of daily duties not only painful, but dangerous. Attributing it to the effect of a cold, we endured it through the Spring, with the hope that with the return of warm weather it would entirely disappear. But in this we were doomed to disappointment. Summer returned, but not our wonted sight. What might have been the result, either of further neglect or of incompetent treatment, we cannot say.

Stating our case to a friend, he assured us that a similar one in his own family had recently been treated with entire success by Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Satisfying ourselves by more particular inquiries that the doctor is no empiric, but a scientific genius and aurist, we consulted to seek the benefits of his treatment, which we have now reason to acknowledge is very great. Though but a few weeks under his care, the appearance of our eyes has totally changed. The pupil is now full and clear, and the lids are entirely free from inflammation. The doctor says that the optic nerve has been weakened and the retina assumed a chronic inflammatory state, affecting more or less all the other tissues, and threatening, if neglected, to end in Amaurosis. Ophthalmia, is the term we believe, which oculists apply to eyes affected as were ours. Having obtained the much desired relief, we take great pleasure in acknowledging our indebtedness to the talent of Dr. Von Eisenberg, and in calling to it the attention of others who may be suffering from a similar or even worse condition of their eyes. It is said that Providence provides an antidote for every bane. It is certain that the eye is, in these times, subject to severer trials than formerly. Let us be thankful, then, that as we increase the tendencies which destroy the organ of vision, the progress of science keeps pace with these tendencies, if not in advance of them.

"SEEING OURSELVES AS OTHERS SEE US."
Just published by
SCRIBNER, NO. 124 GRAND-ST., NEW-YORK,
AMERICA AND HER COMMENTATORS.
By HENRY T. TUCKERMAN. 1 vol., 8vo. Price $2 50.

From the Boston Transcript.

The book indeed might be called the United States seen from a hundred points of view, individual and international. The acuteness, candor and intelligence which Mr. Tuckerman displays in his wide and careful survey cannot be too highly praised. No American library, with any pretension to completeness, can do without this expansive survey of the literature of American travel, while as the general reader is concerned in several descriptions of scenery and manners, delineations of character, lively anecdotes and valuable historiettes. We cordially commend the book to the attention of all lovers of American literature, institutions and character.

From the Evening Post.

Mr. Tuckerman has condensed into one volume, enriched with the results of his own reflection and observance, the gist of what has been written by foreigners about ourselves and our land. There are few writers in the country better suited for such a task.

From the New-York Observer.

A volume of rare attractiveness, and we may safely add of value.

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A more interesting or a more acceptable book could not well have been prepared, and its preparation could not have been intrusted to fitter hands—its scope is wide—it goes back to the origin of the country, and gives what was said as prophecy or promise before America really was, and has collected everything from the government since.

The "2d Quality" are superior to any Pens sold by us previous to the year 1860.

The "3d Quality" by intends shall equal in respect to Durability, Elasticity and Good Writing Qualities the only true consideration) any Gold Pens made elsewhere.

In regard to the Cheap Gold Pens, he begs leave to say that, previous to operating his New and Patented Machines, he could not have made as Good Writing and Durable a Pen for the price, had the Gold been furnished gratuitously.

Parties ordering must in all instances specify the "Name" or the "Number" and "Quality" of the Pens wanted, and be particular to describe the kind they prefer, whether fine or coarse, coarse or fine.

UNITED STATES SANITARY COMMISSION,
No. 823 BROADWAY, New-York, May 16, 1864.

THE FOLLOWING COPY OF A LETTER from Gen. ASHOTH to the Agent of the United States Sanitary Commission at New-Orleans, in regard to the very destitute condition of the wives and children of the Union men of Florida, speaks for itself. As such distribution of funds, the providends of the Commission, and special contributions for the relief of these women and children whose husbands and fathers are in the Union Army, will be received at the office of the Commission, and dispensed by the agent at Pensacola. Clothing, such as dresses for women and children, under-clothing, &c., should be marked, "For Florida Unionists," and be sent to the supply depot of the Commission, at No. 10 Cooper Union, New-York.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF PENSACOLA,
BARRANCAS, 24th April, 1864.

SIR: I beg to state that there are at this place over six hundred, and at Key West over five hundred destitute women and children, entirely dependent on the United States Government for support. To prevent starvation, I have, in accordance with War Department General Order No. 30, current series, directed the Commissary of Subsistence to issue rations to them, and shall issue with condemned meats, but the limited means at my disposal are inadequate for the daily increasing number, and an application to Department Headquarters for medical assistance having been disapproved, much additional suffering must ensue during the coming sickly season among these unfortunate victims of the rebellion, unless immediate steps are taken in their behalf.

I would therefore request, in the name of humanity, that an assistant agent of the United States Sanitary Commission be sent here to assist in providing for their urgent wants.

I am, Sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ASHOTH, Brig.-Gen.

Dr. BLAKE, Agent United States Sanitary Commission, New-Orleans.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1864.
A NEW AND GREAT INVENTION IN HOOP SKIRTS.
THE DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE) STEEL SPRING.
J. L. & J. C. WEST, No. 97 CHAMBERS-ST., NEW-YORK,
Are the owners of the patent and exclusive manufacturers of this.
J. W. BRADLEY'S
PATENTED DUPLEX ELLIPTIC STEEL SPRING SKIRTS.
This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most elastic, flexible and durable spring ever used, enabling the wearer, in consequence of its great elasticity and flexibleness, to place and fold the skirt when in use as easily and with the same convenience as a silk or muslin dress. It entirely obviates and silences the only objections to hoop skirts, viz., the annoyance to the wearer as well as the public, especially in crowded assemblies, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, or in any crowded place from the difficulty of contracting them to occupying a small space. This entirely removes the difficulty, while giving the skirt the usual full and symmetrical form, and is the lightest and most graceful hoop ever introduced to the street, opera, promenade or house dress. A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterward willingly dispense with the use of them. They are the best quality in every part, and by far the lightest, most durable, comfortable and economical skirt made. Merchants will be supplied as above, and ladies in most first-class retail stores in this City and throughout the different States.

MEDICAL.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 10 Chambers-st., near Broadway. Within the years of many, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of Paris, Vienna and London, is the only certain and reliable physician for all cases of a private character. In 26 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others together. Young men who have been deceived and at less expense than any other can or will, and cure themselves by the celebrated Discovery and Health Guide. If will blab but little money. Office hours from 9 to 9. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige of mercury—treated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and specifically cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt relief should write, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full description of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 41 Franklin-st. Call, send, or write.

$1,000 WEREFITED AND NO CHARGE UNLESS CURED.—Dr. Hunter's Red Drop cures venereal diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less time than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury; but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless this remedy is used. This is what no other claims for it and what no other will pretend to claim in this honest world. Well known that scientific men, in every department of medical knowledge, begin to appreciate it; for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. In 24 hours, and cured. Not to be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 2 Dutchess-st., New-York City, since 1824. Eight separate rooms and a private entrance. A letter-card will secure the Monitor of Health by return mail.

THE COMMITTEE

THE FORGED PROCLAMATION.

PUBLIC EXCITEMENT AND INDIGNATION.

Suppression of the World and Journal of Commerce.

MILITARY SEIZURE OF THEIR OFFICES.

Three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars Reward for the Forger.

By the publication of the following atrocious forgery in the World and Journal of Commerce, yesterday morning, great excitement was created among our citizens until the fact that it was utterly false, concocted by enemies of the Union and of the Administration, became patent. Their indignation was aroused, and was neither a feigned nor unfeigned in its expression. But meanwhile it had operated in Wall-street, had found its way on the steamer to Europe, and had secured against the Administration an nascent amount of denunciation and condemnation.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, May 17, 1864.

In the name of sacredness it becomes a nation early to acknowledge its fear of conduct, humbly to approach the Throne of Grace, and earnestly to implore forgiveness and guidance.

For reasons known only to Him, it has been decreed that this country should be the theatre of unparalleled sacrilege, and this nation the chastisement of the nineteenth century. With a heavy heart, but an unshaken confidence in our cause, I approach the performance of a duty rendered imperative by my sense of responsibility before the Almighty and my justice to the people.

It is not necessary that I tell you that the first Virginia campaign under Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, in whom I have every confidence, and whose courage and fidelity the opinion of the world to honor, is virtually closed. He has completed his great enterprise with discreet ability. He has sustained his great antagonist with discreet ability. He has inflicted on the enemy a great loss, and, in return, he has exhausted their strength and defeated their plans.

In view, however, of the situation in Virginia, the disaster at Red River, the delay at Charleston, and the general state of the country, I, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, do hereby recommend that Thursday, the 26th day of May, A.D. 1864, be solemnly set apart throughout these United States as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer.

Deeming, furthermore, that the present condition of public affairs presents an extraordinary occasion, and in view of the pending expiration of the service of (100,000) one hundred thousand of our troops, I, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States, by virtue of the power vested in me by the Constitution and the laws, have thought fit to call forth, and hereby do call forth, the citizens of the United States, between the ages of (18) eighteen and (45) forty-five years, to the aggregate number of (400,000) four hundred thousand, in order to support the existing rebellious combinations, and to cause the due execution of the laws.

And furthermore, in case any State or number of States shall fail to furnish by June 15 next their assigned quotas, it is hereby ordered that the same be raised by an immediate and peremptory draft.

The details for this object will be communicated to the State authorities through the War Department.

I appeal to all loyal citizens to favor, facilitate and aid this effort to maintain the honor, the integrity and the existence of our national Union, and the perpetuity of popular government.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this seventeenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-eighth.

(Signed) ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President:

WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State.

The above was received at the TIMES publication office about 2:30 A. M. The night clerk sent it up to the night editor, who suspected it at once, for several reasons, viz: it came without the usual Associated Press envelope; the handwriting was strange, not being that of anyone known to be connected with the office of the Association; in addition, the clerk slightly indication that everything was in had been received from that office fifteen minutes before. These facts were sufficient to cause the suppression of the document, but to render the matter positively sure, a messenger was sent to the Associated Press office, who soon returned with the statement that the "Proclamation" was bogus, and was not promulgated through that office. In the meantime, the night editor of the Daily News, suspecting the affair, had sent to the TIMES' Editorial Rooms to ascertain how the matter was regarded there, and upon receiving the assurance that it was undoubtedly a forgery, and would not be printed in the TIMES, the News also concluded to suppress it. As soon as the copy was received in the TIMES' Editorial Rooms, information was sought as to the party who delivered it, but the only thing that could be ascertained was, that a boy had rushed in, thrown it on the counter and rushed out.

Early yesterday morning the World discovered its serious error, and bulletined a reward of $500 for the discovery of the forger of the proclamation. It also published, in an extra, a disclaimer and explanation.

The following official denial of the proclamation was received from the Secretary of State, and to it is appended the disclaimer of the Agent of the Associated Press.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, May 16, 1864.

To the Public:

A paper purporting to be a proclamation of the President, countersigned by the Secretary of State, and bearing date of the 17th day of May, is reported to this Department as having appeared in the New-York World of this date. This paper is an absolute forgery.

No proclamation of this kind or any other has been made or proposed to be made by the President, or issued or proposed to be issued by the State Department or any other Department of this Government.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State.

AGENCY ASSOCIATED PRESS,
No. 145 BROADWAY, May 16—11 A. M.

The alleged proclamation of the President calling for four hundred thousand men was not received at this agency, and we have no knowledge or belief in its authenticity. D. H. CRAIG, Agent.

At the Produce Exchange, immediately after the close of the regular business hours, an indignation meeting was organized. Mr. R. P. Gwynne called the meeting to order, and in a few pertinent remarks introduced a series of resolutions, expressive of the views of all patriotic produce merchants. Mr. JAMES P. WALLACE, in seconding the resolutions, spoke in the strongest manner, condemnatory of the infamous hoax, its authors, and all concerned in giving it publicity. The resolutions, as unanimously adopted, read as follows:

Whereas, There was published in the Journal of Commerce and World newspapers of this morning what purported to be a proclamation by the President of the United States, calling for four hundred thousand additional men, and also appointing a day of fasting and prayer; and

Whereas, Held in contrast with the facts, it has been a forgery of the most nefarious and villainous kind; therefore,

Resolved, That in view of the present condition of our country, the authors of such a forgery, and the publishers of it, if cognizant of the forgery, is unworthy of our support or confidence, and deserve the execration and denunciation of every loyal man in this community, and merit the severest punishment which either civil or military law can justly inflict.

MILITARY OCCUPATION OF THE WORLD AND JOURNAL OF COMMERCE OFFICES.

Pursuant, as was understood, to orders received last evening from Washington for the seizure of the offices of the World and Journal of Commerce, the arrest of the publishers and proprietors and the suppression of the papers, Gen. DIX detailed a force of the Reserve Guard for the purpose.

At a few minutes before 9 o'clock, Lieut. G. TURNELL, in command of twelve men, appeared at the World office; possession was taken of the publication office, a guard placed therein, and the Lieutenant visited the editorial and composing rooms. He made no arrests, but directed a cessation of business, and took possession of the premises.

The office of the Journal of Commerce was seized by a detachment of twelve men of the Reserve Corps, under command of Capt. CADBY, about nine o'clock last evening. Our reporter was informed that Mr. HALLOCK, one of the proprietors, was arrested at the office, and that officers were dispatched to effect the arrest of Messrs. PRIME and STONE, the other members of the firm. The office of the Journal was closed, and work was stopped in the composing-room, but the printing of the weekly was allowed to go on, as it does not contain the forged proclamation.

It is stated by the assistant foreman of the Journal that the copy of the bogus proclamation was handed into the office about 2½ o'clock yesterday morning, when only four men were in the composing-room. The copy was cut into slips without being read, and set up by the different hands, who thought they were doing a great thing in getting out so important a document. The editors of the Journal, it is alleged, were all away, and knew nothing of the proclamation until they read it in the paper. It was also stated that the editors had prepared an article, which was set up, for publication this morning, disavowing all complicity in the matter, and offering a reward of $1,000 for the discovery of the perpetrator of the forgery.

THE REWARDS OFFERED.

The World offers $500 for the discovery of the party or parties perpetrating the forgery.

The Journal of Commerce offers a reward of $1,000 for the same.

The Associated Press publishes the following:

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS REWARD.

At an early hour on Wednesday morning, a fraudulent Proclamation, signed by the President, was delivered in manuscript to each of the editors of the morning papers in this City. By direction of the Executive Committee of the Associated Press, and with the approval of the publishers of the Journal of Commerce, Tribune, Express, World, TIMES, Herald and Sun, the Association will pay a reward of one thousand dollars for such evidence as may lead to the conviction of the author of the above-named fraudulent document. D. H. CRAIG,

General Agent N. Y. Associated Press.

No. 145 Broadway, May 16, 1864.

Here are three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500) offered. The messenger who delivered the copies at the different offices was doubtless unaware that he was the tool of traitors. Let him come out at once and give the names of his employers. He will gain honor and money. Other rewards will doubtless be offered, and all the skill and ingenuity that detective patriotism possesses will be used to discover the villainous perpetrator of this scandalous fraud.

A Card from the Journal of Commerce.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The following leading editorial was prepared for the Journal of Commerce of Thursday morning. As it cannot appear in that paper in consequence of its suppression by the United States authorities, you would confer a favor by inserting it in your columns.

PRIME, STONE, HALE & HALLOCK.

A FORGERY.—A hoax, as ingenious in execution as it was infamous in design, was perpetrated yesterday on several of the morning papers connected with the Associated Press, ourselves among the number, by which we were led to publish, in part of our edition, a proclamation purporting to emanate from the President of the United States, but which soon proved to be a forgery. It is unnecessary to waste words in characterizing the criminality of this hoax. Whatever its design, it was the basest and most infamous outrage on the public, as well as on the individual newspapers concerned. The injury done to ourselves is but a small matter in comparison with the public wrong attempted to be inflicted, nevertheless we owe it to ourselves, as well as to our readers, to explain the circumstance under which this fraud was effected. The utmost care and vigilance are exercised in our office, as our readers are well aware, but no amount of care in a well-regulated newspaper office seems to be sufficient to prevent frauds by persons who are acquainted with the internal economy of such an establishment. That some persons familiar with the telegraphic arrangements of the Associated Press, as well as with newspaper office hours and rules, was concerned in this forgery, we think cannot be doubted.

We close our form regularly at about 3½ o'clock. Associated Press and other dispatches are received frequently at the last moment, and sometimes after the form has gone down to the press-room. The Associated Press dispatches are always written in a peculiar style, being manifolded on tissue paper, and having certain peculiarities of paging, &c., which mark them. At about 3¾ on Tuesday morning our form was so nearly closed that the foreman discharged the compositors, the entire force by night, editors and proof-readers having already left. At this moment a dispatch messenger brought by a boy to the foreman, which was the proclamation in question. It was in all respects a perfect imitation of Associated Press dispatches, in the minutest details of paper, paging, &c., and the foreman, thoroughly deceived, snipped a few of the men who had not yet gone out, and having set it up, inserted it in the form, so that it appeared in the latter portion of the morning edition—the early part of the edition not containing it. We may remark here, that the fraud was so perfect that we venture to affirm that ninety-nine men out of a hundred, placed in the situation of the foreman, would have been deceived, and would have acted as he did. The moment when editors have left and the foreman is the responsible man is well known to newspaper men as one of the most critical moments in the day's history of a newspaper. If any one suggests that it is better to reject everything at such a time, let him reflect that we frequently receive as late as 3¾ o'clock A. M., urgent dispatches from the War Department and other departments, the value of which to Government and people depends on their immediate publication, and let him also ask what verdict he would render if any morning paper should refuse to publish a dispatch, proclamation or order from the President, which all the other papers published. This precise responsibility the author of the forgery understood, and timed his work accordingly. There must have been more than one man concerned. There was a thorough knowledge of telegraphic and associated press rules and customs, a clear acquaintance with newspaper offices, and an ingenious care in the procuring of manifold paper, and preparing the copy.

There are numerous details of the manner in which the deception was perpetrated which, for obvious reasons relating to the detection of the criminal, we are for the present withheld. We may mention, however, that manifold copies, almost fac-similes of each other, being the usual form of dispatches to the press, were sent to all the morning papers connected with the Associated Press except one, and the proclamation was published in three other papers besides our own, the deception being so perfect as to succeed in each instance. It excited some surprise in one office, but it was put in type, and a messenger sent to a neighboring office to make inquiries. In this case the other paper had not received it at all, and this circumstance created the first doubt as to its being an "associated press" dispatch, and it was not put into the first-named paper. Another it reached too late, and yet another printed an edition of twenty thousand copies containing it, and suppressed most if not all of it on learning that other papers doubted the authenticity. Our own remoteness from the offices of other papers forbade any such comparison of notes among the men employed.

We have dwelt with such particularity on this fraud because it is important that our readers and the public at large should know what ingenious scoundrels are at work, devising every possible method of deceiving the people, either for purposes of stock speculation or with intent to aid the enemies of the country. It is no pleasant duty to acknowledge ourselves, and our associates in the press, the victims of a forgery like this, but we trust that the exertions we are making personally, as well as all the members of the Associated Press, and the Government authorities, will result in the arrest of the forger, and his emplacement to a fitting punishment.

Letter from the Editors of the Suppressed Journals.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Will you oblige us by publishing in your columns the following statement of the proceedings of the Government this evening toward the World and the Journal of Commerce, regarding the publication in our morning's issues of the forged proclamation, purporting to be signed by President LINCOLN, appointing a day of fasting and prayer, and calling into the military service 400,000 men.

The document in question was written on their manifold paper, such as is used for all the dispatches sent to the several newspapers of our Association, and bad every external appearance and mark to identify it as a genuine dispatch arriving in the regular course of business.

It was delivered at our office late at night, at the time of the receipt of our latest news, too late, of course, for editorial supervision, but, as it happened, not before our printing offices were closed.

It was delivered at all, or nearly all of the newspaper offices, and was published in a part of the morning editions of the Journal of Commerce and World, and as we are informed in a part of the editions of one or more of our cotemporaries.

Early this morning the fact that the dispatch had not been sent by the agent of the Associated Press became known to us, and its fraudulent character was at once announced upon our bulletin-boards, and a reward of $500 offered by us for the discovery of the forger. The Executive Committee of the Associated Press also offered a similar reward of $1,000, as the fraud had attempted to be perpetrated upon all the journals composing our association.

We took pains in the afternoon to apprise Gen. DIX of the facts in the case, and gave him such information in regard to the circumstances of the forgery as might assist him in the discovery of its author. The Government was at once put in possession of the facts in the case.

Nevertheless, this evening Gen. DIX, acting under peremptory orders from the Government, placed our offices under a strong military guard, and issued warrants for the arrest of the editors and proprietors of the World and Journal of Commerce, and their imprisonment in Fort Lafayette. A vessel was lying under steam at one of the wharves, to convey us thither.

Changing to meet one of the officers of Gen. DIX's Staff, charged with the execution of this order, we proceeded in his company to the headquarters of the Department of the East, and were informed by Gen. DIX that the order for our arrest had been suspended, but that the order for the suppression of the publication of the World and Journal of Commerce had not been rescinded, and that we could not be permitted to enter our offices, which continue under the charge of the military guards.

We protest against this proceeding. We protest against the assumption of our complicity with this shameless forgery implied in the order for our arrest. We protest against the suppression of our journals for the misfortune of being deceived by a forgery not less ingenious nor plausible than the forged report of the Confederate Secretary of War, which Secretary SEWARD made the basis of diplomatic action.

VETO MESSAGE FROM HIS HONOR THE MAYOR.

The following message was received from his honor the Mayor, vetoing the preamble and resolution in relation to releasing certain conditions affecting the property recently occupied by the Asylum for Colored Orphans:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, MAY 16, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: I return to your Honorable Body a preamble and resolution authorizing the sale of land held by the association for the benefit of colored orphans on Fifth-avenue, between Forty-third and Forty-fourth streets, for the purpose of suggesting certain amendments, calculated, in my judgment, to promote the object designed.

I have consulted the Counsel to the Corporation, and he agrees with me that it would be proper to require security for the faithful disposition of the funds derived from the sale of the property, and their investment in the purchase of a site and the erection of buildings for the purpose of the charity. I transmit herewith the form of the security recommended by the Counsel.

I would further suggest that the property be sold at public auction, in the usual place for the sale of real estate in the City, and in separate lots, and that these conditions, as well as that relative to security, be incorporated in the resolutions authorizing the sale, and submit the same for the approval of your Honorable body.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

Which was received, laid on the table, ordered to be printed at length in the minutes, and published in all the papers employed by the Corporation.

The following veto was received from His Honor the Mayor, vetoing resolutions relative to excavations under the surface of the street, opposite number thirteen Spruce-street:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, May 16, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: The resolution directing the removal of a shaft across the line of Beekman-street is returned without my approval.

The statements set forth in the preamble are erroneous, as your Honorable Body will ascertain on a closer examination. This shaft is contained in an iron pipe of about three inches in diameter, traversing the street nearly fifteen feet below the surface, and it transmits power for the use of a number of manufacturing establishments. I cannot see any inconvenience to the public in such a use of the street. It is alleged that permission was given the parties some years ago by Mr. Taylor, then Street Commissioner, and the plumber who had the work connected had a permit to open the street for the purpose of placing the pipe, but conceived the plan by which said shaft is operated by pushing it through the ground.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

Which was received, laid on the table, ordered to be printed at length in the minutes, and published in all the papers employed by the Corporation.

The following veto was received from His Honor the Mayor, vetoing the resolution to provide the usual badge of office for the members of the Common Council:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, May 6, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: I return without my approval the accompanying resolution, directing "the clerk of the Common Council to provide for the members of the present Common Council the usual badge or insignia of office, together with the usual or customary books, maps and stationery."

My objections are, first, that the language of the resolution is vague and indefinite as to the character, amount and expense of the articles to be provided for the use of the members; and, secondly, that no appropriation is made to carry out the objects of the resolution, as is required by the express provision of section twenty-eight of the Charter, that no expense shall be incurred by any officer of the City Government, whether ordered or not by the Common Council, "unless an appropriation shall have been previously made covering said expense."

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

Which was received, laid on the table, ordered to be printed at length in the minutes, and published in all the papers employed by the Corporation.

ALFRED THOMSON, Esq., Central City, Colorado.

OFFICE OF THE COMPANY, NO. 8 PINE-ST., N. Y.

This company is organized to work the Thomson and Talbot mines, situated 25 feet northwest of the "Consolidated Gregory Company's Works," and those of Lee, Judd & Lee, in the Gregory district, midway between the Gregory and Bates lodes, and comprising 200 feet of thoroughly developed and worked property, on the parallel Bledsoe and Louisa lodes, with mill site, building, tools, ores, &c., and also 600 feet of first-class lodes, undeveloped, in the immediate vicinity.

The shafts have been sunk through the cap to the depth of 155 feet, and the abundance and rich quality of the ores fully proved by assay and actual working. Being but fourteen feet apart, the two lodes may be worked together with but little more than the ordinary expense of working one. Reliable estimates and vouchers in the possession of the company, show the capacity of the mines, as now developed, to yield, with the new machinery which the company have now in operation by hand, in next, $1,200 per day in gold, which, allowing for estimated expenses, is over ONE HUNDRED PER CENT. UPON THE WHOLE CAPITAL.

While such an estimate, following the fashion of the day, would assign to this a capital of ONE OR TWO MILLIONS, yet no such capital being in fact necessary, the company have thought the true interest of the stockholders would best be consulted by fixing the amount of their capital upon the basis of an actual cash requirement, and leaving the dividends, either monthly or quarterly, to determine the real value of their stock.

The capital is therefore fixed at $250,000, of which $50,000 is reserved as a working capital. The greater part of the stock is already taken; $100,000, including the working capital, may be purchased for ONLY AT PAR, at the office of HITE, MORRIS & CO., bankers, No. 39 Wall-st., payable one-half (25 per share) at time of subscribing, balance on the 1st day of June.

The working capital is amply sufficient for stocking the mines with first class machinery, and will be faithfully devoted to that object. As experienced agent, entirely familiar with them, leaves for the mines immediately.
